NEW APPEAL FOR PEACE

President Is Said to Have Again Communicated With Japan.

CRISIS IS REACHED

Witte and Takahira Agree to Delay the Meeting Until Tomorrow.

DEFERENCE TO MR. ROOSEVELT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 28.—(1:10 a. m.)—There is a persistent report that President Roosevelt has made a new appeal to the emperor of Japan.

TOKYO, Aug. 28.—(7:45 a. m.)—A specially summoned council of the cabinet and elder statesmen is now in session discussing the latest final phases of the peace conference at Portsmouth.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 27.—The life of the peace conference today seems to hang by a thread, but the thread will not be broken tomorrow. At 10 o'clock tonight, after an hour's conference between Mr. Takahira and M. Witte, in the latter's room in the hotel annex, the announcement of a postponement was made. M. Witte explained that Mr. Takahira had told him no new instructions had reached him from Tokyo, and, fearing none might be received before the meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, he had suggested the propriety of postponing the meeting until Tuesday. To this M. Witte said he had readily assented. Mr. Takahira made the following statement:

"Inasmuch as this conference was initiated by the friendly offices of your president, after consultation we felt that we should be cautious about terminating its labors."

Pressed as to whether he regarded the situation as hopeless, Mr. Takahira said: "No, not hopeless, but almost hopeless."

Crisis Is at Hand.

This in itself from one who has spoken always in the most guarded fashion is sufficient to show the desperateness of the situation. The real crisis in the negotiations is at hand. It is very acute, but if it can be tided over for a few days without a rupture a basis of peace acceptable to both sides may come very suddenly. But to save the situation now Japan must speak. If on Tuesday she has nothing to offer, all is over. M. Witte, even if he would, is powerless to take a new step. His hands are tied. He now occupies the role of an imperial messenger who transmits his master's orders to Baron Komura, and Baron Komura turns them over to Tokyo for the response.

The conference room has ceased to be a place for negotiations. It is simply the place where the emperors of the warring countries exchange their communications by the hands of their envoys. And upon the point of indemnity or reimbursement of "fras de guerre" under any disguise Emperor Nicholas has given the Japanese emperor his last word. M. Witte accepts it as final and in writing yesterday informed the Japanese plenipotentiaries that Russia would have nothing further to say upon this subject. Russia would cede half of Sakhalin and pay the cost of the maintenance of the Russian prisoners, but that was all. Emperor Nicholas had given the same response to the president through Ambassador Meyer.

Would Change Purpose of War.

The Russians generally seem not displeased with the situation. They believe Japan has been diplomatically maneuvered into a corner from which, if she now persists in her attempt to exact tribute with the alternative of a continuation of the war, she cannot extricate herself before the public opinion of the world. Japan here and in Europe, they say, appealed for sympathy on the ground that Russia had compelled her to take up arms to protect her life. The fortune of war had gone in her favor and Russia, recognizing that she had been beaten, and preferring peace to the continuation of the war, had agreed to cede upon every point involved in the quarrel.

She was willing to allow Japan full swing in Korea, she was willing to get out of Manchuria bag and baggage, and commit herself to the recognition of China's integrity and the policy of "the open door." But Japan insisted upon tribute and because Russia refused, prolongs the carnage. In that act they contend Japan would change the purpose and character of the war, which would cease to be no longer one of principle but degenerate into a war for the exaction of money.

What is Worrying Japan.

There is no doubt that the Japanese are worried over this aspect of the situation and they do not propose to be placed in this position if it can be helped. With the sentiment existing in Japan demanding reimbursement for the exposnes of the war a money payment beyond what would be obtained for the maintenance of Russian prisoners and the Chinese Eastern railroad could not be foregone. But if redemption by Russia could be placed upon purely a commercial basis, Russia might agree to it. Logic points in this direction for the ultimate compromise if there is to be one.

Whether the president has renewed his efforts cannot be ascertained here. His former suggestion for a compromise failed. He made his appeal simultaneously to both the czar and the emperor of Japan. He proposed the "indemnity-Sakhalin" combination, but not in the form in which it was presented by Baron Komura at Wednesday's meeting. Instead of setting the price (1,200,000,000 yen, the estimated cost of the war), he suggested that if an agreement could not be reached, the fixing of the price should be left to a board or commission. But Japan insisted upon inserting the sum and thus made it impossible, in view of the Russian declaration, to accept it.

RUSSIAN PEASANTS AGAIN IN REVOLT

Agrarian Riots Assuming Serious Proportions—Rioters Slain by Cossacks.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—There is a great increase in the agrarian agitation in various parts of the country, notably in the Caucasus, where there have been serious disturbances. In the Gori district the peasants are forcing the nobles, under the menace of death, to announce to the newspapers that they are handing over their holdings to the peasants freely, or are accepting one-tenth instead of one-quarter of the crop yield.

The refusal of the peasants in the village of Inchadedshan to pay Prince Inukhransky the proportion of the crop to which he was entitled led to a serious conflict between the peasants and Cossacks. The Cossacks fired on the peasants, killing and wounding, according to an official account, 19, and according to an unofficial account, 70.

Peasants from the mountains came to the assistance of the villagers, resulting in fresh conflicts, in which one Cossack was killed. Prince Inukhransky himself had a narrow escape from shots fired at him.

DARING THIEF CLIMBS VINES TO REACH WINDOW

Missionary Fund Stolen from St. Peter's Parochial Residence in Allegheny.

The Rev. Father J. W. O'Connell, pastor of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Allegheny, reported to the North Side police late Saturday night that the parochial residence in Sherman avenue had been entered by a thief during Saturday afternoon and $110 had been stolen. The money was in a cash box in the drawer of a desk on the second floor.

The job was evidently done by an experienced second-story man, as he had climbed up the side of the building on the creeping vines that cover it and had gone in through a window. At the time there were several servants in the house, but none heard any strange sounds or witnessed the entrance or leave-taking of the intruder. The fund was to be used for missionary purposes and was securely locked in the desk from which it was taken.

It is thought by the police that the theft was done by someone who was familiar with the affairs of the church. Detectives Johnson and England are working on the case.

CAN GET PLENTY OF MEN TO DIG THE PANAMA CANAL

Chairman Shonts Declares the Problem of Labor at the Isthmus Will Be Easily Solved—Calls on President Roosevelt.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the Isthmian canal commission, was a dinner guest of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight. He came to talk over with the president some matters in connection with the canal work.

Chairman Shonts said in response to inquiries about the resignation of Supt. Prescott of the Panama railroad, that Mr. Prescott had resigned, presumably because of strictures made upon his conduct of the road. He said that Mr. Prescott had been succeeded by Mr. Baird of the Rock Island system, who is now en route to Panama to assume his new duties.

"I have laid off all steam shovels," said Mr. Shonts, "until the railroad tracks have been put into proper condition for their use. I found when I was on the isthmus at least six steam shovels out of which the operators were not getting to exceed 25 per cent of efficiency. That condition could not be allowed to go on, so we ordered all steam shovel work discontinued for the present.

"We shall have no difficulty in getting all the labor we may want. The superintendent who has charge of that branch of the work has worked 75,000 men on a single contract and he says he could get 100,000 blacks for work on the canal if so many were needed. The principal idea at present is to provide quarters for the employes, to establish good sanitary conditions and to arrange for the prompt payment of the men. Once those preliminaries are arranged we will begin to make the dirt fly."

DIVES IN FULL UNIFORM

Policeman Jumps Into River and Saves a Boy—Rescues Another With Life Preserver.

Attired in full uniform, Policeman Charles Klumpf jumped into the Monongahela river yesterday morning and saved a boy's life. A little later he rescued another youngster. Klumpf was sent to the South Twenty-fourth street swimming station at 10 o'clock, to be relieved at 1 by the regular lifeguard.

Half an hour later William Donovan, aged 11, of 2300 Larkins alley, was at the end of the float measuring the depth of water with a stick. He lost his balance and tumbled into 10 feet of water. He could not swim and was in danger of drowning when Klumpf dived in after the boy and got him to land.

At noon Charles Pfeifer, aged 14, of Birmingham avenue, got beyond his depth and called for help. Klumpf threw him a life preserver and towed him out. Owing to the great number of men and boys who bathe at the South Side swimming stations, Inspector Werner has decided to place two lifeguards at each station.

Yonkers Boy Is Attracting Attention of Physicians from All Parts of the World.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Medical scientists throughout the country have had their attention directed to a remarkable case of catalepsy in Yonkers, where Charles Canepi, aged 8, has been in an unbroken trance-like sleep for more than four months, and it is probable a consultation of specialists in nervous diseases from this city will be called to investigate the case.

April 6, last, while whirling around a lamp post he became dizzy, fell to the ground and struck the back of his head. Two days later he complained of pains in the head and within a few minutes lapsed into a state of unconsciousness, from which he has not awakened.

MODEL PLAN FOR PEACE

Many Nations Send Delegates to the International Congress.

NEW TREATY READY

Congressmen Barchfeld and Burke Will Be There to Work for the End of All Wars.

WILL CALL ON KING LEOPOLD

BRUSSELS, Aug. 27.—An unusually large and representative delegation from the United States congress is here to attend the interparliamentary congress, which will open in the Palais de la Nacion tomorrow. The parliaments of Europe are also numerously represented, the Italian chamber of deputies sending 100 delegates, the British house of commons 30 and the French chamber of deputies 40, while the German, Austrian and Hungarian houses and the parliaments of Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and Holland are represented by a number of conspicuous members. These include Herr von Plener, former minister of commerce of Austria and now president of the Mid-European Economic union, and Count Apponyi, leader of the Hungarian opposition.

Among the American members of congress present are Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, president of the Interparliamentary union, and Representative Burke, of South Dakota; Bates, Barchfeld, Burke, Dickerman, Moon and Palmer, of Pennsylvania; Bouteli and Fuller, of Illinois; Goldfogle and Waldo, of New York; McNary, of Massachusetts; Norris, of Nebraska; William Alden Smith, of Michigan; Slayden, of Texas; Wood, of New Jersey, and Littlefield, of Maine. Former Congressman Barrows of Massachusetts is also here.

Thanks to Mr. Roosevelt.

The American group met this afternoon and Representative Burke proposed the following resolution, which was adopted and cabled to President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay:

"Assembled in the cause of international arbitration, we send you hearty greetings and congratulate you upon your commendable and masterly effort in the cause of peace, which, regardless of the immediate results, has challenged the admiration of the world."

The situation at Portsmouth was the principal subject of discussion among the delegates today, the sentiment being divided between commendation of President Roosevelt's persistency and hope

PREACHER ARRESTED FOR CAUSING ROW IN CHURCH

Attempts to Force Himself Into Pulpit After Being Asked to Resign.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MILFORD, CONN., Aug. 27.—The Rev. R. W. Field, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church, was arrested during a service in that church today, charged with creating a disturbance. He was later arraigned and gave bonds for his appearance in court Tuesday.

Mr. Field, it is alleged, was asked to resign the pastorate of the church several months ago, but for some time he has insisted on filling the pulpit.

Today as the Rev. W. A. Herrod of Hartford was about to preach, Mr. Field attempted to force his way into the pulpit. He was requested by the deacons to take a seat in the congregation, and upon his refusal to do so the church officials directed an officer to place the minister under arrest.

The Rev. Mr. Field formerly was pastor of a church at Asbury Park, N. J.

FLYER LOSES ONE CAR.

Loss Is Not Discovered Until Train Pulls Into Syracuse Station.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(Special.)—The flight of the eastbound Twentieth Century Limited this morning was marked by an accident peculiar in the annals of railroading. When within 100 yards of the Syracuse station the front trucks of the last car left the tracks. The train remained intact until a telephone pole was reached, when the force of the collision severed the car from the rest of the train.

When the limited pulled into the station at 4:04 o'clock this car was missed. The passengers were all asleep and none of them were aware of the accident until awakened by Night Station Master Coogan and asked to board another car.

REJOICES OVER METER STRIKE

Larkin Is Pleased Because City Plumbers Have Stopped Work.

AIDS HIS CAMPAIGN

Urges Wards Where the Water Shortage Exists to Hold Indignation Meetings.

HE WILL NOT SIGN BONDS

"The strike of the plumbers just suits me. The longer it lasts the fewer meters will be put in. I am opposed to meters."

In this manner Controller Larkin rejoiced last night over the strike of the plumbers, who quit work last week because the city authorities would not accede to their demands for car fare and a payday every two weeks.

Controller Larkin made several important statements concerning water meters and water pipe extension, both of which at present are very live topics. He expressed gratification over the strike of the city plumbers because it is an aid to his opposition to the plan of Director Bigelow to put meters in general use. He condemned the plumbers for the character of their demands and declared he would not consent to pay them every two weeks and pay other city employes monthly.

Urges Public Meetings.

The controller also declared he would refuse to sign any bonds issued by councils for water pipe extension, and urged that the wards in need of better water supply begin a campaign by holding public meetings and bringing pressure to bear on councilmen.

He suggests that the administration, instead of asking the people to vote for a bond issue for water pipe extension, use the money for that purpose now in the bond fund, and then, if not satisfied in regard to the public sentiment regarding the meters, to take a popular vote on that question by submitting a bond issue for meters to the people.

"They would soon find out that the people do not want meters," said the controller. "Water should not be measured any more than air. The restricted use of water, which would be the result of meters, would cause tuberculosis and disease. It would be a veritable pest to the community. When God made the earth he made it three-fourths water and one-fourth land. There is enough water for every person, and it is one of the essentials for which there is no substitute.

Condemns City Plumbers.

"The strike of the city plumbers was wholly uncalled for. It is in bad taste for these men who have only been in the employ of the city about four months, to make such unreasonable demands and attempt to run the government. I will not consent to pay them every two weeks, because it would require us to double our office force and would invite a demand from all other city employes to be paid every two weeks. If any partiality were to be shown, I would rather show it to the laborers who work for $1.65 and $1.75 a day. They are the men who need pay days oftener to get credit from the stores in order to live.

"I do not care how long the strike lasts. The longer it lasts the fewer meters will be put in. I was thinking of trying to put a stop to installing meters on legal grounds, but I do not care to raise the question, unless I am certain that I will be sustained in court. The question was on the legality of spending money from the bond fund for meters in advance of building new lines for water distribution and building the filtration plant.

Water Extension First.

"The installation of meters is the last named item in the ordinance for the expenditure of the bond funds. The money remaining in the bond fund after the filtration contracts are provided for should be used to supply districts complaining of a shortage of water. The money should be used for water extension first, as the ordinance provides.

"There is a surplus of about $600,000 in the bond fund which can be used for water extension and which I stand ready to pay out if the work is done."

"What plan would you suggest, controller, for the wards to pursue which are clamoring for a better water supply?"

"I would suggest that they first apply to Director Bigelow for relief. If he does not give them relief, then they should hold public meetings and get their councilmen into line. I think that would speedily bring relief," said Mr. Larkin.

He added that he did not suggest this plan to create trouble for Director Bigelow, but to help the people who are in need of water.

Will Not Sign Bonds.

"The money is there to be used and the people who are suffering from a shortage of water should have it," said he. "It is not necessary to pass ordinances in councils. The court has decided that the bond money has already been appropriated for the purposes intended, and another appropriation by councils is not required. Therefore it will be unnecessary for councils to pass any ordinance for the appropriation of any part of the bond fund for water extension. All that is necessary is for Director Bigelow to order the work done and let the contracts and I will countersign the warrants to pay for the work."

"What about a bond issue for water extension, controller?"

"There will be no bond issue," said he. "I would not sign any bonds authorized by councils without a vote of the people and such bonds could not find a buyer in the financial market."

Marion (Ind.) Grocer Learns That Eating House Conducted That Way Will Not Do.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Aug. 27.—A. F. Norton, the Marion grocer who secured the dining hall privileges at the Wesleyan conference meeting at Fairmount with the purpose of conducting the business "As Christ Would Run It," has found the project unprofitable and has abandoned it.

He opened a store several years ago, sold goods for cash only, refused to deliver them and paid his employes every night. He was successful.

In the dining hall he refused to make any charge for the meals served, but left it to each individual's conscience as to whether and what he should pay. The tableware was all of tin. The patrons complained of the tinware. The ministers were among those who registered the loudest and longest complaints.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—The collapse of the timber of a terrace 16 feet above the stage during a rehearsal at the Metropole theater this afternoon while 20 performers were in the terrace and the stage was crowded caused the injury of 20 persons. It is feared that four of the injured will die. Max Steiden, the most popular comic singer in Berlin, being among the number. Nearly all of the others injured are young girls.

MOB LYNCHES NEGRO WHILE SHERIFF PLEADS

Body Was Hanged from a Bridge and Riddled With Bullets in North Carolina.

NEWBERN, N. C., Aug. 27.—John Moore, a negro, 30 years old, was taken from Craven county jail in this city early today and lynched by a mob of 100 masked men armed with rifles and revolvers.

With his hands tied behind him, the negro was led out about a third of a mile from the jail to the draw of Neuse river bridge, hanged to one of its braces and his body riddled with bullets. The mob attacked the jail between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning. Entrance to the jail was effected by forcing the jailer to surrender the keys. As soon as the attack was discovered the naval reserves were called out to attempt to prevent the lynching. Crowds rushed to the bridge. Sheriff J. W. Biddle was quickly on the scene pleading that Moore be left to the law, but his efforts were unavailing and the mob carried out its plans.

Moore entered the country store of George Eubanks at Clarks, seven miles from Newbern, last Friday when the proprietor's wife was the only one in. The negro attempted robbery and struck Mrs. Eubanks on the hand with a sheet ax. The negro fled, but was captured in a swamp after a chase of a few miles, and was placed in jail.

ARGUES AGAINST AN INDEMNITY

Baron Rosen Makes the Remuneration of an Enemy Seem Almost Absurd.

A QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE

By EDWIN A. GROSVENOR, LL. D. (Professor of modern government and international law at Amherst college.)

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, N. H., Aug. 27.—As Baron Rosen is not in the habit of granting interviews, as, this, so far as I am aware, is in fact the first he has accorded, as it followed immediately upon the adjournment of the crucial session of Saturday, it is of marked interest and importance. I shall make no attempt to give the baron's exact language.

The baron began by expressing his grateful appreciation of the hundreds of letters he has received from all over this country, testifying friendliness and sympathy for Russia in the present emergency. He dowit with special pleasure upon the fact that a large proportion of those letters had come from old soldiers of the civil war, who referred with feeling to the days when our nation's existence was at stake and when the only friend the United States possessed in the world was Russia. Then he took from his pocket, as an example, one letter just received from a veteran in Indiana, wherein the writer frankly discussed the terms of the proposed treaty and insisted strongly that Russia should not, in any form, pay a single cent of indemnity.

More Than Japan Had Demanded.

Passing on to those terms of the proposed treaty which have been already accepted, the baron remarked that Russia had conceded far more than Japan had demanded or even seemed to desire before the outbreak of hostilities. That is, Japan had more and Russia conceded that Japan had won every ostensible object for which Japan declared she went to war. There remained four other conditions. Two of them have been waived by Japan. These related to the interned ships, concerning which Japan had advocated a procedure contrary to all the practice of international law, and the limitation of the Russia navy in eastern waters, conditions both apparently introduced for subsequent judicious withdrawal or to accentuate Russia's humiliation. I do not recall that any reference was made to the first of the two remaining conditions, namely, cession of territory.

As to the second, the question of indemnity, the baron expressed himself in no uncertain terms. The consideration of indemnity seemed to overshadow all other considerations and to render every other consideration of minor consequence. And as to indemnity, it was not at all a question of the amount. It was purely, exclusively a question of principle. As far as the principle was concerned, the indemnity or reimbursement or tribute money meant the same thing. Whether the sum demanded was one billion roubles or one million roubles or one thousand roubles did not enter into the account.

Baron Rosen's Logic.

In the present state of the war and under existing conditions, for Russia to pay an indemnity under whatsoever form or called by whatsoever name would be a gratuity to the recipient and without precedent in history. It would be to remunerate an enemy for launching an attack. It would serve as precedent and incentive for repetition of like attack on some future occasion when circumstances favored. Other nations have paid indemnities, but only when crushed; never when confronting their antagonist as Russia now confronts Japan.

In that trenchant logic, of which Baron Rosen is master, he made the serious consideration of an indemnity to be paid by as yet unconquered Russia seem impossible, almost absurd.

As I parted from the baron I could not but realize the striking similarity between Russia's position in the eyes of the world in 1905, after 18 months of war, and the position of the United States in 1862, 18 months after the secession of South Carolina. Other nations believed that ours was a hopeless fight and appealed to us in the name of humanity to end the butchery. Some even threatened to interfere. We believed then, as we believe now, that each nation must be supreme judge of its own affairs. A principle at stake outweighs money and outweighs man.

MAN WITH SWELL CLOTHES IS ARRESTED AT STATION

He Is from Philadelphia and Is Caught by Detectives While Running Away With Ballplayer Smith's Baggage.

Henry Miller, who says he is of Philadelphia, who wears good clothes and is a polished talker, was arrested in the corridor of the Union station last night while hurrying out of the building with a suit case of Harry Smith, catcher on the Pittsburgh baseball team. Miller protested against being arrested and claimed that the baggage was his own. Smith was just on the point of leaving on a train for Philadelphia, and the lost suit case was soon returned. Miller was locked in Central police station on the charge of being a suspicious person.

The arrest of the man caused consternation among the passengers. The Pennsylvania limited had just arrived and several hundred people were waiting in the corridor. The gates had been opened to entrain the Chicago limited, the New York special, the St. Louis limited and the Detroit express.

Suddenly in the midst of the throng a large man with the air of an experienced traveler rushed toward the gate where the Detroit train stood ready to depart. On his heels were Detectives A. H. Swinehart, William Pideon and Fred Goebert, Jr. Just as the stranger reached the gate Swinehart seized his arm.

"Where are you going?" shouted the detective.

"I'm from Philadelphia and I'm going to Detroit on this train," answered Miller as he drew away toward the gate.

"Whose baggage is that?"

"My own, sir," answered Miller.

"Where's your key?"

"Of course, I've got the key," he shouted as his face grew red and he fumbled through his pockets for his key. He could not produce this, however, and was asked to accompany the detectives to the station.

Harry Smith had just arrived from his home in Mansfield and was going east to join the club at Philadelphia. He carried two suit cases and left them in the corridor while he went to the restaurant to get his dinner. The detectives say that they saw Miller around the corridor for an hour or more and that he had no baggage when he was first seen. After following several persons, they say, he sat on a bench near Smith's baggage and at the first opportunity seized the larger suit case and rushed toward the train.

Baggage thieves are said to be plentiful at the station at this time of year, when vacation travel is heavy, and the officers are exercising more than usual care in watching this kind of thieving. The suit case which Miller secured contained the ball player's uniform and gloves.

YELLOW FEVER DEATHS INCREASE IN THE SOUTH

Thirteen Fatalities and Thirty-One New Cases is the Record for Sunday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—Following is the yellow fever report for today: New cases, 31; total to date, 1,743; deaths, 13; total, 255; new foci, 12; total, 402; remaining under treatment, 199. The board of health at Natchez, Miss., pronounce six to 10 cases of yellow fever there.

Today's yellow fever record shows the smallest number of new cases since August 6 and the largest number of deaths on any day since the fever made its appearance. Three prominent merchants are among the new cases. Of today's deaths eight are Italians.

The principal news from outside the city was the announcement from Natchez of the discovery of six cases there and the attempt to blame New Orleans for them.

FEAR THE "BIG STICK."

Mr. Roosevelt's Policy Seems to Have Put a "Big Fraid" Into the Chileans.

VALPARAISO, Aug. 27.—(Copyright Cable.)—The minister of foreign affairs has been accused of endeavoring to favor Americans with the contract to construct the Arica-La Paz railway. Several deputies see danger of international complications if the contract were given to Americans.

This, it seems, is the outcome of the new definition of the Monroe doctrine by President Roosevelt and his "big stick" policy. Chileans distrust and dread more the American government than the so-called European imperialism.

SHOOTS HIMSELF DEAD DURING CHURCH SERVICES

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 27.—A few minutes after the close of the Rev. W. B. Riley's address at the First Baptist church today while 200 persons were leaving the edifice, a man, who is thought to be W. Rowen of Sublette, Ill., got up in a pew and fired a bullet through his heart, dying instantly. A draft for $700 was found on his person. At the report of the revolver, many women became greatly frightened.

YOUNG WOMAN GOLD MINER FIGHTING FOR A RICH MINE

Claims It Was Taken from Her by Fraud and Collusion of Authorities.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Miss Lena Walton, who is said to own more mining property than any other woman in Alaska, has brought suit in the supreme court of the District of Columbia to enjoin the secretary of the interior and the commissioner of the land office from issuing a final patent to a mining company which Miss Walton claims by means of fraud, perjury and abstraction of the public record obtained property of hers valued at $1,000,000.

This suit is one of three. The first was brought at Nome to resist the judgment obtained by the mining company. Suit was also filed at San Francisco, the residence of the corporation. Former Senator Thurston of Nebraska is counsel for Miss Walton. Two years ago she induced Attorney General Knox to make the investigation which resulted in the removal of the judge and the United States marshal at Nome on charges of malfeasance in office.

BOTH TAGGARTS ARE CONFIDENT

Father and Mother Each Claim They Will Win the Case and Get the Boys.

MRS. TAGGART'S STATEMENT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 27.—The fifth and what is believed will be the last week of Taggart divorce case, will open tomorrow morning, when Mrs. Taggart, whose testimony is eagerly awaited, will herself take the stand. With the disposition of the case but a few days off, both Major Tagart and his wife express confidence. Mrs. Taggart declares that the charges against her have been refuted by the evidence and that she will be awarded the custody of the two children, while the husband expresses with equal certainty his belief that he has won his case and that Culver and "Tiddles" will be turned over to him.

When Major Taggart left for the home of his parents in Orrville last evening to spend Sunday he said that he had no fear but that he would secure a decree of divorce and control of the boys. When Mrs. Taggart was seen at her home this afternoon she seemed to be in excellent spirits. In response to questions she said:

While I believe that too much has already been printed about the trouble between Capt. Taggart and myself, yet I may as well say that I believe the testimony so far given in the trial shows that I have been wrongfully accused by Capt. Taggart. His charges are the result of jealousy and hallucinations. His accusation that there was a conspiracy between me and his fellow officers in the army has been exploded. I believe this has been shown by the testimony of Gen. Miner and Capt. Ryther and by the depositions of others. I believe, too, that all I ever said about Capt. Taggart's cruel treatment of me on the night of June 30 and on other occasions has been confirmed by the statements of Gen. Miner and other witnesses.

All this will be still more firmly established to the satisfaction of the court before I leave the witness stand. I am sure no person believes that it has been shown that I have used liquor to excess at any time, as he charges. Nor has he shown that I ever gave liquor of any kind to Culver or "Tiddles."

I am confident that before I get through with my testimony the people of this country who have been following the case will realize that I am the victim of a man whose suspicions have been based upon nothing but his mad jealousy. Through the continued use of liquor and through constantly brooding over his fancied wrongs, these suspicions finally became fixed in his mind as realities.

My own testimony, I believe, will clearly establish the fact that my relations with "Billy" Taggart were simply those of one kindly disposed toward a relative of the captain's—a poor relative who did me many favors at times when I was in need of a man's help in transacting business. I treated "Billy" Taggart as I did the captain's own brothers and sisters. I have realized during the trial that the good people of Orrville placed a wrong construction upon my kindness to "Billy," and that Capt. Taggart, by reason of his jealousy and his suspicious nature, accepted what these people said as facts. With the end of the trial, which has been a fearful ordeal to me, I believe that I am about to be vindicated and that I shall be awarded the custody of my boys.

NEW APPEAL IS MADE FOR PEACE

Emperor Nicholas refused to go farther in addition to the concessions already made than to agree to the cession of half of Sakhalin.

Right to an Indemnity.

According to a high Russian authority who has been in a position to see President Roosevelt's communication proposing a compromise, it quite clearly showed that the president considered that Japan's victories gave her the right to ask for an indemnity, in fact if not in name, and was also entitled to Sakhalin and that her military occupation of Sakhalin gave her the right to the island.

The president's friends, however, claim that when the full text of his proposition is before the world, all criticism must cease. It is well, therefore, again to repeat the statement telegraphed last night which comes from one in full possession of the entire action taken by President Roosevelt. "If the civilized world could know at this time the precise nature of the propositions made to Russia and Japan by President Roosevelt, it would seem that the force of public opinion of the great neutral powers of the world would induce the plenipotentiaries and their governments to pause and consider seriously the results before breaking up finally the present conference without an agreement. Indeed, they might scarcely dare, in the face of the world's opinion, to refuse to accept, in principle at least, the suggestions offered by the president."

President Is Notified.

Assistant Secretary of State Peirce, after the announcement of the decision to adjourn over to Tuesday, saw both M. Witte and Mr. Takahira, and then sent a long cipher message to the president.

Although the public tonight was led to believe that the meeting was definitely adjourned until Tuesday, the Associated Press learned late tonight that according to the joint understanding between M. Witte and Mr. Takahira it was agreed that there would be no meeting until Japan's response to what may be regarded as the Russian ultimatum arrived. The meeting therefore may not be held until Wednesday or Thursday. Tokyo must now decide, and, judging from the tone of the Japanese press, the government must face a great deal of opposition at home if it yields further. Mr. Plancon acted as interpreter for M. Witte and Mr. Takahira at this interview tonight.

After the interview M. Witte called Mr. De Martens and Mr. Pokotiloff in conference. The interview between M. Witte and Mr. Takahira was the sensation of the day. Everybody had been at high tension. On all sides the report had been spread that tomorrow would witness the final break-up and that tomorrow night the hotel would be deserted. The Russian attaches who know M. Witte's position were discussing the dates of the steamer sailings. Then suddenly at 2 o'clock the rumor got abroad that M. Witte and Mr. Takahira were in private consultation. Fifty correspondents beleaguered the doors of M. Witte's room. When it was over M. Witte emerged and pretended to be greatly astonished at the crowd of journalists. He appeared to be in very good humor and cracked several jokes in French, which most of those present did not comprehend, and then briefly made the announcement quoted above.

LIDIAPUDZE, MANCHURIA, Aug. 27.—Reports telling of a large number of typhoid cases among the soldiers have been exaggerated. There are some cases but the general state of health in the army is excellent. As typhoid generally arises through the soldiers drinking unboiled water, movable machines for the boiling of water are being rapidly established. The Japanese advance along the railroad has ceased. They have withdrawn to Shahedzy.

TOKYO, Aug. 27.—The proposal that Sakhalin be divided between Russia and Japan is exciting strong popular opposition here, and it is freely predicted that acceptance of it will result in demonstrations against the government. The Nichi Nichi declares:

"Peace under such circumstances would be imperfect. Peace must be concluded. Since the island was recovered at the point of the sword there is no room to entertain the proposal for a partial surrender of it. Should our government try to conclude peace in the presence of so many obstacles to effecting a lasting peace the result would only be a temporary cessation of hostilities for which we would hold our authorities responsible and unhesitatingly blame them. Japan shall adhere to her demands with reference to the payment of indemnity and the cession of territory."

The Hochi Shimbun expresses surprise that the proposal to divide Sakhalin was made and says the proposal verges on the absurd.

The Mainichin says: "If the reported proposal to divide Sakhalin is true, it is a most grave and serious danger to our country. It will be impossible to entertain it as it would only serve to sow the seeds of further dangers and complications. Let us stop the peace negotiations if the proposal is seriously made."

Rear Admiral Kataoka has reported to the imperial navy department that the naval division sent up the Amur river bombarded and destroyed two Russian guard stations at Zharef and Lazerevo on the south bank of the river. These stations had recently been reinforced.

Army Front Extended.

GUNSHU PASS, MANCHURIA, Aug. 27.—During the long quiet there have been reinforcements to both sides, giving the theater of war a much changed appearance. The front has been greatly extended, made possible by the use of the wireless telegraph and because of the unexampled size of the armies, the character of the third stage of the war, whether it be active hostilities, demobilization or the garrisoning of contested territory, will be complicated.

The relative positions of the two armies is comparable to that of a year ago, and the country immediately facing the Japanese is almost identical with that which confronted them at Liao Yang. The acquisition of the railway and rivers by the Japanese at Mukden, together with their Fengwang Cheng communications and Gen. Kawamura's new line of communication and defense running from the head of navigation on the Yalu river across to Kaiyuan, with the occupation of the Chengpaishan mountain region, makes control of the administration of South Manchuria as complete as that achieved in the north by similar organization and in the consolidation of these connections, the destiny of Manchuria is clearly fixed regardless of other influences.

Heavy crops of oil, beans, millet, maize, indigo and hemp are under cultivation there now. This comprises a region extensively scouted by the Japanese, who appear bold and active pending the negotiations. The people complain of horse thieves and robbers.

There is general appreciation throughout of the demonstrations in the United States for M. Witte. After an enormous rainfall during the past 10 days it is believed that the rainy season is closed.

HOLMES IS NOT FOUND.

Secret Service Officers Hunting Former Statistician With a Warrant.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., the dismissed associate statistician of the department of agriculture, for whom several secret service men and detectives are hunting with a warrant issued yesterday as a result of his indictment for conspiracy in the cotton report scandal, had still eluded arrest at a late hour tonight.

It now looks as though he would not be in the hands of the authorities until tomorrow morning, when his lawyer, Mr. W. E. Lester, publicly announced he would surrender him. Because Mr. Lester failed to produce Holmes yesterday as he first promised, District Attorney Beach has been making every effort to arrest him.

DYNAMITE STEAMER ASHORE.

Narrow Escape of Business Portion of Cleveland from Destruction.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—The steamer Dorothy, Capt. Roderick, from Wilmington, Del., bound for Houghton, Mich., with 300 tons of dynamite aboard, went aground off Cleveland harbor last night and lay in a menacing position until tonight, when powerful tugs pulled her off.

The Dorothy was putting into Cleveland harbor and through a mistake on the part of the pilot the boat was sent into the rocks, 300 feet from shore. The captain and crew worked all night to prevent the boat pounding too hard else there probably would have been an explosion of sufficient force to shatter the downtown portion of the city. The pilot who made the error resigned immediately.

MODEL PLAN FOR PEACE---POWERS FAVOR ARBITRATION

that the plenipotentiaries might reach a compromise.

Mr. Bartholdt, chairman of the American group, reported to the executive council of the congress, which met this afternoon under the presidency of M. Bernaert, the Belgian minister of state and adviser of King Leopold.

Nobel Prize for Bartholdt.

Mr. Bartholdt presented a draft of a model arbitration treaty and plan for a permanent international parliament. With the aid of the English members, Philip Stanhope and W. R. Cremer, the plans were referred to a special commission for final action prior to the reassembling of The Hague conference. The discussion showed considerable opposition to arbitration on the part of the Italian and German delegates. Assurances were given by other delegations that President Roosevelt's proposed reassembling at The Hague would be carried out at the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese war, and this was fortified by a letter from President Roosevelt showing the positiveness of the president's intentions.

In the absence of Mr. Bartholdt, the American delegation unanimously adopted a resolution for presentation to the Norwegian government, asking that the Nobel prize be conferred on Mr. Bartholdt in recognition of his efforts in behalf of arbitration.

King Leopold will receive the members of the congress at the Royal palace at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

To Bring Universal Peace.

With a view to substituting judicial decisions according to recognized principles of law for war between nations, the signatory powers have entered into the following general treaty of arbitration, which is based upon the recognized right of every nation to organize itself in such a manner as it may choose and to be supreme in its own domain, without, of course, being it from responsibility for its acts contrary to recognized principles of international law.

Article I. All differences which grow out of the interpretation, or enforcement of treaties, which concern diplomatic or consular privileges, boundaries, rights of navigation, indemnities, pecuniary claims, violations of recognized principles of international law, shall be tried by the international courts, established under this treaty and the treaty of The Hague, section 30 et seq.

Article II. All other questions of whatever character, shall be referred to a commission of inquiry, constituted according to the provisions of the treaty of The Hague, (Title 3, Articles 9-14), or to a court constituted as provided herein and decided on appeal by a court of the permanent tribunal at The Hague, before resort to arms. Alleged violations of this clause shall be tried by the international courts as provided for questions included in article I.

May Reject Court's Finding.

Article III. Upon filing of a statement of its contention in a case of the kind included under article II., either power may serve notice that it will be proper for its treaty-making power to accept or reject the decision, otherwise it will be considered that the decision of the courts shall be final, as in cases coming under article I.

In case the treaty-making power elects to reject a decision after same is rendered, before commencement of hostilities the powers concerned and the administrative council at The Hague shall agree upon and publish what shall be considered contraband, the rights and duties of neutrals, as understood by the belligerents, and the day for commencing and ending of hostilities—and the territory within which war may be waged. This being done, the question of war or peace shall be referred to the people of the appealing nation for their decision, before war is actually declared.

Article IV. Courts of first instance shall be constituted as follows: Upon notice of resort to arbitration by either party to a dispute, the members of the highest court of each power concerned shall name two of their own number, or any other two persons whom they consider competent, as judges. These shall each name a member of The Hague tribunal, and the last member of the court shall be chosen by lot from those so named, and he shall be the presiding judge, unless he requests that some one else be elected president judge. But by mutual consent of all the designated judges, the presiding judge may be chosen by them. In such case he need not be a member of The Hague tribunal.

Bench Instead of Bullets.

Article V. All cases under both articles I. and II. shall be tried first by a court constituted as above, or by a commission of inquiry, unless all parties concerned agree to begin action in the high court of The Hague. There may be an appeal in all cases to the high court of The Hague, unless the decision is unanimous, the question pecuniary, and the amount adjudged is less than $1,000,000.

There must be an appeal to the high court of The Hague before exercise of the right to resort to arms; for such right shall hereafter be exercised only after a decision by a high court of The Hague tribunal, either upon original hearing of a controversy or upon an appeal from a commission of inquiry or from a court of first instance, constituted as provided herein.

Article VI. The court of first instance shall decide upon all rules of procedure, appoint all necessary agents, and fix their compensation, designate the time and place of their sittings, etc., and shall render their decisions according to the terms of the treaty of The Hague on this subject; and shall have power to levy costs and fees for maintaining the necessary officers of the court—and order such sums to be paid in by the litigants, during the action as may be necessary to meet the current costs.

Article VII. Either party to a controversy may deliver to the other party or parties a statement of its contention, and is entitled to a judgment according to the same, to be entered by the clerk of The Hague court, unless it receives a counter statement in a reasonable time. Upon application and proof of delivery of such statement of the case, the clerk of the court shall designate what would be a reasonable time for delivery of counter-statement, and shall so notify the other party or parties.

Notice to All Nations.

A judgment by default may be set aside by the clerk for a reasonable cause.

Upon issue joined, the clerk shall certify the fact with proper papers to the highest court of each power concerned, if the case is to be tried before that court of first instance.

If the case is to come before a commission of inquiry or before a court of The Hague tribunal, the clerk of The Hague tribunal shall take the necessary steps to constitute such a commission or court as provided in this treaty and the treaty of The Hague.

When the judges for the trial of a case shall have been selected it shall be proper for them to decide and announce to the contending parties the reasonable rules of procedure to be followed for taking evidence, hearing motions, etc., time and place of trial, sittings of court, etc.

Rules of procedure once announced and followed shall be considered as constituting a part of the procedure of the permanent court of arbitration, of the courts of first instance, and of the commissions of inquiry, but may be changed by the court of commission of inquiry, especially constituted to try any question upon the application of any party at the first session after its constitution, or by the judges during any case, on their own initiative.

Article VIII. If a court of The Hague tribunal or a commission of inquiry shall not be constituted by the method provided in the treaty of The Hague, the clerk of The Hague court shall summon, by lot, a sufficient number of the members of the highest court of the nations signatory of this treaty, not of the parties to the action, from whom the court or commission shall be completed, by such method as may be prescribed by the court.

Judge's Only May Serve.

In making the members of the highest court of the nations eligible for duty on the international court and commission of inquiry, it is intended that only those who are actively judging in their own nation shall be eligible to judge between nations.

Article IX. Denunciation of the treaty of The Hague by a nation shall remove its judges from the international courts, and therefore the high contracting parties agree that neither of them shall denounce the treaty of The Hague, while this present treaty remains operative. And the permanent court of arbitration provided for by the treaty of The Hague, and such other courts as are hereby or may hereafter be created by the signatory powers, shall have and exercise the jurisdiction created by the present treaty, until the present treaty is denounced, even though the other signatory powers of the treaty of The Hague may have previously denounced that treaty.

And in order to make this article of this present treaty effectual, the high contracting parties agree, so long as this present treaty remains in force, to keep their members of the permanent court of arbitration duly appointed as provided in said treaty of The Hague.

Article X. This treaty shall continue in force three years after it is denounced by either of the signatory or adhering parties thereto, and denunciation by one nation shall not terminate it between others signatory, or adhering to it after its original execution.

Will Preserve Monroe Doctrine.

Article XI. The number of judges to be selected as herein provided, for the trial of any controversy shall be five, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, or unless the number of nations in a case before the courts of first instance necessitates for such case a larger number, and decision shall be by a majority of judges.

Article XII. The president of a court or commission of inquiry constituted by virtue of this treaty, shall be designated by the court after it is fully constituted, except as provided in article 4.

Article XIII. The court shall determine the language to be used in any case.

Article XIV. International courts and commissions of inquiry shall have power to tax the costs of all cases according to their judgment.

Article XV. All nations whose people are engaged in commerce with the people of any of the signatory powers may adhere to this treaty at any time. In the event of their unwillingness to agree to the judicial determination of all such questions as are included herein—with the notice of their adherence, they may designate such classes of controversies as they will refer to arbitration, under this treaty. Upon such designation the treaty shall become operative for such controversies between all the powers that have adhered to the treaty in all its parts or have designated the same classes of controversies as arbitrable.

Article XVI. Nothing herein shall prevent entire freedom of action on the part of signatory powers in a matter which concerns a power not signatory hereto. (This preserves the Monroe doctrine.)

BOAT CAPSIZES WITH THREE MEN

Tragic Accident at Lock No. 2 Is Followed by Heroic Rescue, but One Man Drowns.

CANOE GOES OVER THE DAM

After passing through an accident that was dramatic and tragic F. A. Servis and C. J. Hendrickson, college graduates, now working as apprentices in the electric engineering department at the Westinghouse works in East Pittsburgh, returned to their apartments at noon yesterday after spending the night and the morning hours on the towboat Gillette at Lock No. 2, down the Ohio, assisting in a vain search for the body of Clarie P. St. John of Brooklyn, N. Y., a comrade, whom they had seen swept away as a canoe which bore the three capsized.

Saturday afternoon Servis, who is a graduate of Lehigh; Hendrickson, who is a graduate of Cornell, and St. John, a graduate of the State College of Kentucky, left Verona in a canoe to take a trip to Wheeling.

About 11 o'clock, according to the survivors, they reached a point near Lock No. 2, where the shore stretched out in a wide curve. In an effort to avoid this wide sweep the canoe was paddled out into the river and struck a swift current. The men made a desperate effort to gain and pass through the lock, but owing to some miscalculation, went into the bear trap which was down and shot over the dam at a furious rate.

The canoe at once capsized and all were thrown out into the stream. Their united cries attracted the attention of Capt. McCleery of the towboat Gillette, which was tied up near by, and he sent a boat after the men. Meanwhile Servis had been drawn under a barge, but by heroic effort managed to get out again. He was dragged into the boat in an exhausted condition. Shortly after Hendrickson was also taken into the boat. Neither man could have remained afloat much longer, owing to the swiftness of the river at that point.

The men manning the boat then gave their attention to St. John, who was farther out in the stream, and who could be seen struggling for his life, and was heard crying for assistance. Just as the boatmen were striving to get to St. John a towboat coming down the river got between the life savers and the struggling man, and after the boat had passed with its tow St. John was no more to be seen.

Servis and Hendrickson were taken aboard the Gillette and spent the night in assisting the crew of that boat to search for the missing man. Yesterday they returned to their homes in East Pittsburgh. While they were close friends of St. John they do not know where any of his relatives live. Calling at his rooming house, they learned from St. John's room-mate that Dr. E. H. Small of Penn and Negley avenues, was an uncle of the missing man, and at noon yesterday informed him of the accident.

Dr. Small describes St. John as being 23 years of age, 6 feet tall and of almost perfect physical development and handsome countenance. He was a prominent football player while at college and while following this sport had his nose fractured, though the after effect is hardly noticeable. He weighed 180 pounds and wore a gray sweater with the initial "K" worked out in blue. Under the sweater he wore a blue and white striped jersey, while on his feet were moccasins. Dr. Small offered a liberal reward last night for the recovery of the body.

TALKS ON THE APOSTLE OF AMERICAN METHODISM

In the series of meetings at the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal church, under the auspices of the Men's club, the speaker last evening was the pastor, the Rev. H. L. Smith, who spoke on "Bishop Asbury, the Apostle of American Methodism." The address was the same one Mr. Smith delivered as an oration when he graduated last spring from Drew Theological seminary. The subject was especially appropriate as yesterday was the 160th anniversary of Bishop Asbury's birth. The speaker told how the early follower of Wesley spent 45 years as an itinerant minister, his field extending from the gulf to the lakes, and from the Atlantic to the western frontier. The Rev. Dr. Riker, president of Mt. Union college at Alliance, will be the speaker next Sunday.

WOMAN IS RECOVERING.

Mrs. Stamer Out of Danger—Children View Father's Body.

Mrs. Margaret Stamer of 3204 McClure street, who was shot by her husband on Saturday night, was reported as well on the road to recovery by physicians at the South Side hospital last night, though the bullet has not as yet been found.

The three youngest daughters of the Stamers, aged 5, 8 and 10, called at the morgue yesterday afternoon to view the remains of their father. The scene was a pathetic one, for the little ones wept piteously. The six little ones now dependent upon the wounded woman, are being cared for by friends and by an elder sister who is married.

FIFTY PASSENGERS JUMP FROM BURNING STREET CAR

By the burning out of an armature in one of the motors on car 3049 of the Avalon line, near the High bridge at 8 o'clock last night, the line was blockaded for over half an hour. The crippled car was pulling an open trailer. The burning armature set fire to the floor of the car and over 50 of the passengers of the two cars were so badly frightened that they jumped off and took passage on other cars. The crippled car was put out of service for repairs.

BATTLE OF BILL POSTERS FOR TWO RIVAL THEATERS

Bill posters for the Gayety theater and the Academy of Music battled fiercely early yesterday morning. A crew of the Gayety men had just finished hanging their gorgeous paper and placing their bill boards at Fifth avenue and High street when the Academy crew arrived with posters as lurid as those of their rivals. The Academy men, it is alleged, began tearing down the bills and throwing down the boards containing the Gayety announcements. A fight at once started. During the melee, it is claimed, Homer Kilicich and his seven assistants, representing the Gayety forces, beat up James Howard of the Academy party. After the fight, it is alleged, about 15 Gayety bill posters assembled in Sixth street, near the theater, armed with stones and baseball bats, waiting for the Academy men to arrive and continue the war. They were dispersed by a squad of policemen. Leaders of both parties say they will enter suits today before Alderman Oyer.

COMMITTEEMEN ARE UP IN WRATH

Washington County Democratic Committee Refuses to Stand for Fusion.

WANT STRAIGHT-OUT TICKET

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Aug. 27.—The dissatisfaction created in the ranks of the Democrats of Washington county through the placing of "fusion" candidates on their ticket to fill vacancies, has culminated in an open eruption.

On Saturday a petition signed by 72 out of 103 elected Democratic committeemen of the county was presented to Chairman J. Carter Judson, asking him to call a meeting of the county committee for next Thursday. He is given until Monday noon to issue a call. Should he refuse legal steps will be taken to compel him to call the meeting.

The fact that 70 per cent of the committee in the county have united in the revolt against fusion with the "independent Republicans," has created a stir. It was claimed by the Democratic leaders that 90 per cent of the Democrats in the county were favorable to fusion. The men who have signed a petition for a meeting claim that the naming of the independent Republicans to fill out the ticket was contrary to the party rules.

The rules provide for the filling of vacancies on the county ticket by the county vigilance committee, which is composed of the chairmen of the vigilance committee of each voting precinct. It is further provided that no change can be made in the rules without a year's notice of such change. At the last Democratic convention a committee of three was authorized to fill the vacancies on the ticket. No authority was given to this committee to fill the ticket with the independent Republicans, and the old-line Democrats claim that it was not the sense of the convention that any such alliance should be made. When the committee later entered into negotiations with the "Citizens" leaders and filled out the ticket giving the important places, including judge, prothonotary, clerk of courts and one member of the board of commissioners to former Republicans, the rank and file of the Democratic party protested.

The revolting committeemen have employed counsel and if the county chairman refuses to call a meeting they will go into court to compel him to make the call and at the same time test the validity of the ticket named.

QUIET SUNDAY MORNING AT ALLEGHENY LOCKUP

Magistrate Abernathey Has Unusually Small Number of Visitors at the Initial Hearing of Week.

Magistrate Samuel Abernathey had a quiet Sunday morning session yesterday at the North Side central station. A number of drunks and disorderlies and several persons taken in the raiding of two immoral resorts completed his file of offenders who got hearings.

Lieut. Fred Fleck and a squad of policemen early yesterday morning raided the alleged disorderly house of Irene Gordon at 14 Mary street, Allegheny, and arrested the proprietress, three inmates and four visitors. The woman was fined $50 and costs, the girls $10 and costs each and the visitors $5 and costs each.

The house of Irene Wilson at 68 West Robinson street was raided by the same squad, and one inmate and seven visitors arrested. A fine of $50 and costs was imposed upon the proprietress and lighter fines were paid by the others.

David Jeffries faced a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by his wife, Hattie, of Sample alley, who swore her husband had thrown carbolic acid on their infant son because it cried. The child's arm was slightly burned. Jeffries was fined $10 and costs.

T. L. Tenney visited a house at the corner of Lacock street and Madison avenue, where his wife says she is working. He annoyed the woman and finally tried to break into the house of Edith King at 121 Madison avenue. He was fined $10 and costs.

HOLD MISSIONARY RALLY.

German Evangelical Protestant Churches Conduct Out-Door Services in Schenley Park.

The first missionary rally ever held under the auspices of the German Evangelical Protestant churches of Pittsburgh and vicinity took place yesterday morning in front of the music stand in Schenley park. The attendance was much smaller than had been expected, and the Rev. C. G. Wagner of Etna, who presided, announced in his opening address that he had expected five times as great a congregation as had gathered.

The Rev. Gustave Probst, the deposed pastor of the Smithfield street church who was to have made an address, was not present, while the choir of that congregation, which was to have sung, was also absent. Among the speakers were the Revs. C. V. Weiss of Cleveland, J. G. Reess of Mt. Washington, Alfred Schramm of the South Side, C. Schaer of Steubenville, Gustave Schmidt of McKeesport and Hugh Haengaertner of Bloomfield. Music was furnished by Goeddel's orchestra, the choir of the Baum congregation of Bloomfield and the choir of the Birmingham congregation.

PLAGUE IN PANAMA.

Two Deaths from Bubonic Disease Take Place Among Isthmus Laborers.

PANAMA, Aug. 27.—(Copyright Cable.)—Two suspicious deaths have occurred at Ancon hospital, thought to be bubonic plague. One of the victims had been working at the lumber yard at Labocoa. The other came from Laparett, where lepers are kept, pending bacteriological conclusions by the health and quarantine officers.

No definite announcement will be made, but a small building in which the men were treated has been ordered burned. It is not thought the disease will spread, as the quarantine and health officers are vigilant.

Raid on a Rural Speakeasy.

County Detectives Armstrong and O'Brien and Constable Cubbage raided a speakeasy in Ohio township yesterday afternoon and succeeded in rounding up the proprietor and 20 visitors. Twelve empty beer cases, about 100 bottles of beer and five jugs of whisky were found in the house. The speakeasy is said to have been in operation for more than eight years.

GOV. CUMMINS MUST EXPLAIN

Secretary Shaw Misquoted in a Speech Made by Iowa Chief Executive.

LETTER FROM CABINET MEMBER

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw today made public the following letter written by him to Gov. A. B. Cummins of Iowa, in reply to statements made by Gov. Cummins before the recent reciprocity convention at Chicago:

Chicago, Aug. 25.

My Dear Gov. Cummins: In a carefully prepared address delivered before the reciprocity convention at Chicago, which the papers say you read, "lest you might be misreported," you used this language: "The secretary of the treasury in a speech recently delivered in Des Moines, is reported as saying that the explanation of the refusal of the senate to consider the French treaty is that it gives everything to France and nothing to the United States. I must do him the justice to believe that he never read the treaty, for otherwise he has committed a grave offence against the proprieties of debate."

I did not see that portion of your address until I came west, and have delayed writing that I might ascertain where I was reported to have made such a statement. I knew I did not say it or anything that could be so interpreted, but I was not so sure about the report. The occasion was an informal luncheon, and the speech was impromptu, though not extemporaneous. I find that both the Des Moines Republican daily papers represented at the luncheon reported me as saying:

Shaw Favored the Treaties.

"I was an enthusiast among those who favored the reciprocity treaties. Among these treaties was one with France. The French contract gave her an advantage in entering the American market over every other country on 70 articles, in consideration of which she agreed to apply her minimum tariff to our exports to France, except as to 20 articles, including horses, butter, eggs, cheese, leather goods, machines (machine tools), dynamos, etc. That is, if we would treat France better than we did any other country, France would treat us about as well as she did any other nation.

"Of course the treaty was not ratified. I say, of course. I mean merely to say it was not ratified. There were those in the senate who declared that they did not believe this nation should discriminate against Great Britain where we sell $500,000,000 of our exports for the benefit of a nation which takes less than $200,000,000."

While the report is not verbatim, it is substantially correct. Whether I read the treaty before making the statement is relatively of little importance, but if the treaty as negotiated did not give France a reduction from our regular tariff rates on substantially 70 articles (to be exact, 69 articles), counting every variety of silk manufacture as one article, then it may be conceded that I had not read it; and if it did not exempt 20 American articles from the provisions of the French minimum rate of duty as follows:

Some Experience in Debate.

Horses, butter, lucern and cloverseed, fodder, cast iron, skins and hides prepared, boots and shoes, skins and parts of same, belts and cords and other leather articles manufactured for machinery, dynamos, machine tools, dynamo conductors and parts; arc lamps, known as regulators, sugar, chicory roots, green or dried; eggs, cheese, honey, porcelain, cardboard, rough or in sheets; then it may be conceded that I violated the proprieties of debate, though an informal talk at a luncheon is several removes from a debate.

You, my dear governor, and I have had some experience in the trial of cases, and we have seldom lost through the misrepresentation of our opponents. Attorneys usually, and lawyers always exercise great care lest they incorrectly state a position of their professional adversaries. Certainly friends and adherents of the same political party will be more careful still.

Knowing, therefore, that you would not "violate the proprieties of debate," by quoting me without authority as having made a specific statement, I write to inquire where you saw the report of my speech as given in your Chicago address. I have not seen it, and I wish to correct the record as soon as possible. Please advise.

Very sincerely yours,

LESLIE M. SHAW.

GETS AN ITALIAN WHO HAS A DIRK

Police in Making Daylight Raid Find Fairchance Man Who Acts Peculiarly.

MAY BELONG TO PICCIOTTI

In raiding an alleged disorderly house at 18 Clay alley about noon yesterday, the police captured a man who is suspected of being a member of the formidable Italian secret organization known as the Picciotti, said to be similar in its plans and purposes to the "Black Hand" organization.

The raid was made by a squad of officers acting under the direction of Special Officer Peter Angelo, himself an Italian, to whom is delegated much of the work connected with the police regulation of what is known as the downtown Italian quarter. The house raided is alleged to be presided over by Alexander Scigliano. Among the nine visitors found in Scigliano's place was Paul Seson, of Fairchance, whose actions were so peculiar that suspicion was naturally directed toward him.

In the first place, as the officers entered the house, Seson was seen by Angelo to be trying to hide something. Angelo lost no time in getting a strong grip on Seson's throat and then it was learned that the articles he was endeavoring to put away were a 10-inch dirk and a razor. On the blade of the dirk were a number of spots believed to be blood stains.

While Angelo was taking Seson to Central station he was followed by a number of Italian friends of the prisoner, and to one of these Seson tried to pass a package of papers and a pass book. Angelo was able to secure these papers. He says that while not directly connecting Seson with the Picciotti, the papers are of such a character as to warrant entertainment of the suspicion that has been directed against Seson.

Among the stuff found in Seson's possession was a lot of tickets for a raffle. The tickets are printed in Italian and read as follows: "Riffa Urio Riloggio die oro. c25, Mike Virde." It is said by Angelo that when a member of the Picciotti commits murder or any other crime, the organization gets up a raffle to raise money to help his escape. Angelo says he is confident he can eventually show Seson's affiliation with the order.

There is another story in connection with the raid made yesterday. Shortly before midnight, Saturday, three brothers named Longo, who boarded at 18 Clay alley, got into a fight at Clay alley and Tunnel street. When Joe Longo was arrested by Policeman Bernard Eggert, it was discovered that he had been stabbed in the left breast within an inch of the heart. Longo was sent to the Homeopathic hospital and after his wound was dressed was returned to Central station. A short time later it became necessary to return Longo to the Homeopathic hospital, where he now is.

Early yesterday morning Angelo arrested Antonio Longo, the second brother, who is alleged to have done the stabbing. The third brother has not yet been arrested, but the police expect to capture him.

MOKE IS MERCIFUL.

Discharges 57 Prisoners Out of a Total of 76 Before Him.

Magistrate Moke conducted the hearing at Central station yesterday morning. Of 76 prisoners 57 were discharged.

J. B. Kinkel, who, it is alleged, was insulting men on the street Saturday night, was fined $25 or 30 days to the workhouse.

William Hammon was sentenced to pay $25 or 30 days and John Riley $10 or 30 days. The men were accused of holding up men on the South Tenth street bridge.

John Smith was fighting at Second avenue and Grant street Saturday night and he was ordered to pay $25 or serve 30 days in the workhouse.

James Stockes was fighting in Wylie avenue and received the same sentence.

Newsboy With a Gun.

Fred Wright, a street car newsboy, was arrested while flourishing a revolver and threatening to shoot some other boys at Forty-third and Foster streets yesterday morning. He said he carried the weapon to protect his home, but as he lives in Monterey street, Allegheny, several miles from the scene of his arrest, his excuse was not accepted. He is in the Lawrenceville police station.

Empty Boxes Fool Police.

Policeman W. A. Wess found two packing cases, securely nailed, in front of Schine & Lansdale's store, 811 Watson street, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning. They were hustled off to the police station and opened, when they were found to be empty.

WAR PRISONERS IN JAPAN SEEK FREEDOM OVER HERE

Russian Immigrants Bring the News That the Czar's Subjects Captured in Manchuria Want to Become American Citizens.

Russian prisoners in Japan never again want to see Manchuria or to carry arms for the czar. Their eyes are set toward the rising sun, and when the exchange cartel for the return of the Russian hostages is granted by the Japanese government the soldiers hope to immigrate to the United States. The broad billows of the Pacific seem to them but a narrow stream separating them from the land of the free, and if the opportunity offers, "the little children of the Russian emperor" will make haste to come hither.

This is the substance of the news which immigrants from the interior and the southern provinces of Russia are bringing to America. Freedom is the Russian's greatest hope, and the dream of a land where there is no oppression and where the horrors of war are unknown is like a vision of heaven in his eyes.

Meyer Weisman, a Jewish immigrant from the neighborhood of the Kishineff district in Russia, arrived in Pittsburgh on Thursday with his wife and two children. He lives at 60 Logan street. His party is only a small delegation of the great number of Russian refugees who have located in Pittsburgh during the last three months. Weisman's son, Harry, who has been here with his sisters for some time, speaks English fluently and translated his father's story of conditions in his old home when he said farewell to his native land.

"All the members of the younger generation are opposed to the war," said Weisman. "This is the case among both the orthodox Russians and the Jews. The feeling of unrest is general, but the people hardly know why. The particulars of the war in the far east and of the revolutions which are causing turmoil in Russia are almost unknown to the common people. The situation is pitiful. The older people who do not enjoy a comfortable living have little to hope for. Those who can come to America are the envy of all their neighbors. Among the Jews the older people are flocking to Jerusalem, where they will live the remainder of their lives in the chosen city. In this practical Zionist movement there are thousands of old Jews there who are being maintained in Jerusalem at the expense of their children in this country. Some of the Jewish residents of Pittsburgh send small sums to comfort their aged parents who are now residing within the walls of the capital of the Holy Land.

"The Russian prisoners in Japan are forbidden from receiving letters from home, and all mail addressed from Russia to the soldiers in the Japanese lines is intercepted by the Russian authorities. The object of this is to prevent the prisoners from being apprised of the unrest at home and to prevent the Japanese from learning of the state of affairs in Russia. The soldiers, however, are allowed to write as often as they like from their prisons."

A Perspective of Autumn.

Things autumnal are beginning to take on life, and in a week or so we will be well into the flush of autumn business.

Here is the Pittsburg Exposition ready to open its doors on next Wednesday evening, and having for its initiatory concert the incomparable Damrosch orchestra. For years the moment the Exposition opened business people dropped all thoughts of the so-called dull season and took on a great lot of new energy. For putting life into retail business there s nothing like our Exposition, especially its opening week.

Then, again, there are many announcements of fall weddings, another excellent sign that people are giving their thoughts to the golden-rod period of the year. And the theaters are opening, just as much of an autumnal sign as the coming of bluebirds is a sign of spring.

Last of all, we are well prepared, thus early, with autumn goods, and we know of nothing that will please women more than to course around the store and inspect the new yardage goods and the new ready-to-wear garments, and the new millinery.

New Combs From Paris.

On Saturday the Pittsburg Custom House transferred to our notion counter a great lot of combs that we bought in Paris for a very special price.

They are made of Italian shell of an extra heavy quality and of a very superior color.

These new combs are different from the ordinary comb in that they are curved and fit very close to the head.

The extreme styles are very tall, bordering on the combs corn by colonial dames.

Prices 50c, 60c, 75c each.

Autumn Weaves of Black Dress Goods.

Black is going to be very popular this autumn and winter and we have sern to it that plenty of blacks will be on our counters. At present we are ready to show new stuffs from both American and European looms, sheer materials of silk and wool, plain voiles, plain wool taffeta, prunella, fine French serges and poplins, not forgetting the stylish black broadcloths in medium and chiffon weights, all are ready for an early discussion. In grades we have them to meet every idea:

54-inch imported black glove-finished Broadcloth, $2.00 a yard.
44-inch imported black French Tailor Voile, $1.00 a yard.
42-inch imported black French Chiffon Voile, 50c a yard.

In colored dress woolens for early autumn wear there are hard finished fabrics both in plain and Panama weaves, and they promise to be received cordially.

50-inch all-wool Panama, plain burlap weave, and the mixed effects, also a full range of solid colors, including black. Some are already sponged and shrunk, $1.25 a yard.
44-inch imported French Tartan Panama Checks, in varied sizes of blue and green color mixture, 95c a yard.
Soft and firm French Serges, in a complete range of new autumn shades, including cream and black, 75c a yard.

Autumn Silks Arriving.

The new silks are coming in pretty much every day now and drop in when you may you will be sure to be greeted by some new guest of the silk family.

Unless one goes into a studied article on silks it is a matter of some difficulty to give elaborate detail—we think a notice that the new silks are here is a sufficient invitation for women to call and have an introduction to them. We have pleasure in citing several numbers with which we are quite sure you will be pleased.

Taffeta Chinois in chameleon effects, both plain and fancy, a decidedly handsome silk, $1.50 a yard and up to $3.00.
Satin Electra, in such beautiful fall colors as plum, garnet, brown, green and in the several blues, notably the new Portsmouth blue, $1.00 a yard.
A new black Taffeta Meteor has arrived, and it will certainly be appreciated for making rich gowns. The design is a small and very neat figure, $1.50 a yard.

Adjoining the silk counter is the counter for Velvets, and we assume that you know that velvets are going to be largely used the coming season for trimming. We call your attention to a new line of Paon Velvets in new fall colors, admirable for dress trimmings and for millinery, $1.25 a yard.

Very little has been done toward improving the supply of water in the Twentieth ward, which Director Bigelow promised should be satisfactory before the last Saturday in August. It is just the ordinary outcome to promises of the administration. When the promise was made votes were wanted for a bond issue that has since been abandoned. The Twentieth ward can wait for its water until its votes are urgently needed in some other election.

Prof. Emil Rath, at Turner hall, declares no corsets will be worn while young women are receiving athletic instruction from him. He has a good reason for his decision and will probably be able to enforce the rule—during hours of exercise. How much good will that do? Suppose the pupils compress themselves between lessons, does the professor expect them to gain much by the temporary respite? This controversy is so old it may fairly be classed as one of the "irrepressible conflicts."

While the interchange of notes between Germany and France regarding the Moroccan conference are successively described as having "improved the situation," France is carrying forward active war preparations. There is a belief among the French people, probably not shared by the government, that another war with Germany will soon be fought. Popular belief in such matters is often erroneous as to existing conditions, but is a strong influence in provoking hostilities when accidental friction occurs.

Secretary Bonaparte's contention for Canadian railroad transportation of naval supplies is not superior to the sometime order of the war department for purchase of Panama canal supplies in the markets of the world. His readiness to submit in the event that congress shall enact a law limiting contracts for transportation to American railroads signifies nothing, for he could not resist an approved act of congress. The secretary had better have taken account of Canadian policy in like matters and have followed Canadian precedent than to have made this illogical ruling.

There is a terrible famine in Spain. The population of a vast district is on the verge of starvation; in fact many persons have succumbed to their deprivations. Men, women and children are reduced to mere skeletons and no relief has been offered except private charity. Spain is not a wealthy country, yet the existing conditions are not creditable to its government. The approach of this famine has been foreseen for many weeks. There was ample time to make an appropriation and apply it to the purchase and distribution of food before the people began to die of starvation. Nothing was done then and nothing has been done since.

While there will be a meeting of the peace envoys at Portsmouth this afternoon there is no assurance of peace. The adjournment of Saturday was followed by outgivings by M. Witte on the one side and Mr. Sato on the other, not indicative of friendly disposition. Both spoke bitterly. Even more bitter were the comments of attaches who refused the use of their names in connection with their utterances. All of this may have been for effect, merely; it may have been in earnest. The result will show. Meanwhile "one man's guess is as good as another's," and the leaning toward peace or war will be according to individual interpretation.

Minister Meline of France gives it as his opinion there must be a return to agriculture on the part of the French people and the people of other nations and a partial abandonment of industrialism. Perhaps he is right. Assuredly the misery of the towns is the worst misery that can befall industrious people. On the farm there is usually something to eat, if there is little to wear. It is not always so. A glance over into Spain will convince M. Meline that famine may stalk among agriculturists as famine and misery may seize upon factory hands and mine workers. The problem of living is not so easy that any hard and fast rules can be applied. There is misery enough for town and country. There must be agriculture and there must be industry. The proportion of each will be adjusted sooner or later by natural causes.

A Democratic Machine.

There is a very persistent plea in behalf of Democratic Candidate Berry that his election will "smash the Republican machine." To what end? Why, to put the Democratic machine in control. Looking back over the two Democratic state conventions of this year can any one question the existence of a Democratic state machine? Can any one assert those conventions were not conducted according to typewritten programs which were followed to the letter in the nomination of candidates and the adoption of resolutions? Surely not, for this is a matter of common knowledge.

Thus every plea for Berry as a means to "smash the Republican machine" is a plea to put the Democratic machine in control. Those pleas have no other purpose and no other object. The Democratic machine is not one whit better than the Republican machine in any essential. It is a closer corporation and the power of its bosses is more absolute. Will it be pretended they are men of better character? Then look at James Knox Polk Hall of Elk. Con his record as a member of the state senate. Read his public utterances. Turn to Charles P. Donnelly of Philadelphia. He is in control of the Democratic party there. He is a boss. His influence is infinitely greater in the Democratic party of Philadelphia than former Judge James Gay Gordon. The City party declines to have him as a candidate for county commissioner, yet it will accept him as one of the bosses to run the Democratic state machine, if it is put in power, because the City party in that case could not help itself.

There is no reason why any good citizen should prefer the Democratic machine to the Republican machine. On the contrary there are good reasons why the Republican control of the state should continue. The state has been freed from debt, put on a good financial base, has been given a good tax system and has been progressive under Republican control. It was not always so. It would not long be so under reactionary Democratic auspices. The plain moral is to vote the whole Republican ticket in November.

Model Arbitration Treaty.

Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri will present to the interparliamentary union a "model treaty of arbitration." The scheme is well thought out. It provides for a court of first instance to which may be submitted any international controversy. Failing settlement here the dispute may be carried higher. In brief, the proposition is that nations shall agree by treaty that instead of going to war they shall go to court like two litigants in any of the civilized countries

Possibly the world is not quite ready to apply this sensible procedure to international disputes. There are land hungry empires that may prefer a good excuse to provoke hostilities that may yield something in return. There can be little doubt, however, that enlightened sentiment in all lands is tending toward arbitration, or judicial procedure in lieu of war. This trend among the nations is natural as popular intelligence grows. It is directly in line with the development of governmental institutions.

In former ages disputes between individuals were settled by resort to the cudgel. The verdict was frequently unjust. If victory was not always to the strong it was "to the vigilant, the active and the brave." It was probably not half of the time on the side of him who had "his quarrel just." Courts came to be organized to adjudicate disputes and prevent the predatory activities of those who were more vigilant and strong than scrupulous. There is the same incentive to the formation of international courts, though, oddly enough, the strongest of nations are among the most ardent advocates of the system. The shedding of human blood is becoming more abhorrent as civilization advances. Some of the most powerful nations are farthest advanced and that is why they favor arbitration.

Women in the Army.

A German professor puts forth the suggestion that every girl in Germany should devote three years to the military service of her country. Every young man in Germany is now required to serve three years in the army and Prof. Eschelbach has written a paper advocating the similar term of army duty for every German young woman. If Prof. Eschelbach simply seeks notoriety he is likely to get it through this monstrous proposal; if he be in earnest he is doomed to certain disappointment; if he hopes indirectly to condemn the system of male conscription he may have some measure of success.

There are many people in Germany who do not approve the three years of military service for every young man. Very few will be found to approve any army term for the young women. In the case of young men the chief objection is to delaying their entrance into business life or gainful occupation, though some argue a large percentage of all are unfitted, by barrack life, for the ordinary duties of the German citizen. Unquestionably avoidance of this military conscription is one of the strongest incentives to emigration among young Germans.

Militarism as now exemplified in the German empire is a serious burden. It is on this that agrarian and industrial demands for ever increasing government protection are founded. From import duties this favoritism passes to restrictions that are practically prohibitory to the entrance of foreign products. These measures serve to keep the land owning and shop owning classes quiescent, but they throw a larger share of the burden on the "proletariat" and give impetus to the socialistic propaganda. An addition of the young women of the empire to the number to be supported in military non-productiveness would almost double the economic handicap, not to mention probable disastrous effects on the domestic life of the country. It is too monstrous a suggestion to entertain seriously.

The Ohio Campaign.

Arrangements are practically complete for the opening of the Ohio campaign in September. The Republican opening will be at Bellefontaine and that of the Democrats at Newark, both on the same day. A few days ago Gov. Herrick made an impromptu political talk at Barnesville, in which he outlined his attitude very vigorously. In brief he says he has nothing to apologize for; he has done his duty as governor of the whole people and proposes to continue doing it.

In the matter of the Brannock local option law Gov. Herrick has nothing to retract. He declares the only man who tried to exert improper influence on him in connection with that law was an officer of the Anti-Saloon league. The governor is making no special plea for the support of members of that organization and is showing no special favors to the saloon men. His antagonist, John M. Pattison, the Democratic nominee, is identified with the Anti-Saloon league. He was nominated in the hope of getting the support of that element, but he is so offensive to the old line Democrats his campaign managers have decided he must not speak in the campaign. They are fearful an expression of his sentiments would drive away Democratic votes and if his anti-saloon ideas were edited out of his speeches, his failure to say something along that line would estrange the very element his nomination was designed to corral.

Under these circumstances the Democratic campaign does not look promising. It is said there is marked Republican disaffection in the counties of southeastern Ohio. It is possible this may be so, but there is certainly no good reason for it. Gov. Myron T. Herrick is a Republican of the true school, a worthy successor to William McKinley as governor. He should be re-elected because he is a Republican and, in addition, because, if elected, he will make it warm for the professional lobbyists in Columbus. The lobby is the blot on Ohio's legislative escutcheon and Gov. Herrick should be commissioned by the people of Ohio to drive it out of business.

An Advertising Dodge.

American yellow journalism has been outdone. The appeal of Paris Matin to John D. Rockefeller to pay Russia's war indemnity is the boldest and at the same time most ridiculous stroke of sensationalism ever attempted by the press. It is not to be supposed for a moment the Matin made its proposition seriously. It must have known Japan would not consent to receive the money from any other source than Russia, for the purpose in demanding an indemnity is to assure a lasting peace more than to recoup Japanese losses. It is possible Matin meant to confuse this issue and to put Japan in the light of a mercenary but that cannot be proven.

Mr. Rockefeller's wealth has been variously estimated, up to $1,000,000,000. It is probably not half of that sum. Japan asked for $600,000,000. If Mr. Rockefeller should undertake to pay that he would likely overreach his worldly possessions. His wealth is in property and if he undertook to market property to that amount it would cause a great disturbance of values. Much of the Rockefeller wealth has been created by him and has never been bought or sold. In these facts appear the ridiculousness of the appeal to the "richest man in the world."

Laying aside all of these considerations the whole thing is absurd in itself. Mr. Rockefeller is not a Russian and is under no obligation to Russia to assume the consequences of its diplomatic blundering. Mr. Rockefeller had no hand in bringing on the war. In common with other right thinking persons he has probably deplored the loss of human life and the maiming of men in Manchuria. That is no reason why he should pay Russian debts, or intervene to shield precious Russian "honor." Matin has simply played a trick for notoriety. Its consummate "nerve" can be admired, but its motive and method do not commend it very highly.

If New Orleans has any of that specially fine disinfectant left over from the fever campaign she might ship a few barrels to Wooster, O.

A PREACHMENT BY THE QUIET OBSERVER

Concerning the Possibility of Horses and Dogs Going to a Heaven When They Die.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

I would not enter on my list of friends,
Though graced with polished manners and fine sense,
Yet wanting sensibility, the man
Who needlessly sets foot upon a worm.
—Cowper.

Any man who is cruel to an animal will be cruel to his fellows, to his wife, and to himself.

Cruelty will surely come home to roost. Notice carefully a man or boy who is disposed to be cruel and you will find that he bears many scratches and marks showing that he has had many bumps.

The cruelly disposed boy always seeks something weak or inferior on which to practice his cruelty, but he is not always happy in his selection, for now and again he mistakes the metal of his intended victim and gets a kick, or a lick, or a bite that he was not expecting, but which was coming to him just the same.

The spirit within us acts upon ourselves the same as upon others, only more effectually, so that in the end we suffer more from a cruel spirit than do those whom we cause to suffer for our amusement.

If we possess a good spirit, and cultivate it as we should, it will react upon us, making our lives as happy as we would make the lives of others.

As we give to others so shall it be given unto us, is one of the laws of life.

* * *

The study of man is the most interesting and profitable study we can take up, for the history of man is the history of the most wonderful creature on earth.

Has it ever occurred to you that you are the sum of creation, that in you is all, or a part of all, that ever has been?

The noblest of all created things is man, and the most ignoble. He is far superior to the kindest and best disposed animal, and below the meanest and lowest of the brutes.

There isn't anything meaner than a mean man. There can't be anything meaner, because he can be as mean as the meanest animal, and then some. The animal having no control over its nature to make it other than what it is born, can't be meaner than it was born to be, but man can invent and concoct meanness, and, being a free agent, he can use and practice these indefinitely.

Man can exceed animals in meanness to the extent that he exceeds them in intelligence and free will.

* * *

One who has devoted much time to the study of man and his development writes this bit just to set us thinking along right lines:

"It is a curious and instructive study to trace man's relationship to the other animals from the earliest ages down to the present time. Unless science is greatly at fault, aboriginal man was not differentiated from the wild beasts among whom his lot was cast during the geologic agewhen he made his first appearance on earth.

"Possil remains show that he lived in caves with the bears and other wild creatures, and had to fight a hard battle in the struggle for existence. It is not difficult to imagine him crawling out at an early hour, looking around for a club to kill a snake for his breakfast. This reflection is not calculated to heighten that pride of ancestry, which is so characteristic a trait of modern times, but, on the other hand, credit cannot be withheld from our progenitors for rising by degrees from so lowly an estate.

"Later on, when man, by discovering the use of weapons, obtained a mastery and lived almost exclusively by hunting, he regarded all animals as his especial prey. Perhaps at this period the principle of cruelty to animals became so universally ingrained that all subsequent civilization has been unable entirely to eradicate it. It was when man passed from the hunting to the pastoral stage of existence and learned to domesticate certain of his four-footed companions that the very necessities of the case suggested kind treatment to these humble servitors."

* * *

Man is immortal, so it is claimed, and he is an animal also.

Is he the only animal that is entitled to immortality?

This is a question that has bothered great minds for ages past, and it is still a mooted question, at least it has not been settled to the satisfaction of all who are entitled to an opinion concerning it.

Mr. Angell, editor of "Our Dumb Animals," certainly has a right to speak on this subject since he has devoted his life and fortune to the education of men and animals. He says many passages in the Bible give the impression that the writers knew, or believed, that horses are immortal. The following from II Kings is very suggestive:

"And when the servant of the man of God was risen early and gone forth, behold an host encompassed the city both with horses and chariots. And his servant said unto him, Alas, my master! how shall we do?

"And he answered, Fear not; for they that be with us are more than they that be with them.

"And Elisha prayed, and said, Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man; and he saw; and behold the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha."

* * *

Many of the scientists, especially those who deal with psychology, discuss this question and are inclined to believe that many of the animals are endowed with reasoning power. Whether their resemblance to man goes to the extent of possessing souls is, of course, impossible to determine. Some of the earlier of the Asiatic religions gave animals a much higher rank in the intellectual and spiritual world than is now accorded them.

The souls of all animals were supposed to be interchangeable and by the doctrine called metempsychosis, a transmigration of souls occurred, not only from one man to another, but from a brute to man and vice versa. This belief was very prevalent in the ancient world and perhaps was shared by the earlier Hebrew writers which, as Mr. Angell insists, presupposed the possession of souls by horses.

Many a horse lover would like to think that his favorite steed would rejoin him in the Isles of the Blest, but whether it is a fact or only a fond delusion that horses enjoy immortality is one of those problems whose solution lies beyond the philosopher, the natural scientist or the most profound theological expositor.

* * *

And now when you come to think about it, wouldn't you rather go to horse heaven than to the heaven of some people whom you know, and not very low down people at that?

Dog heaven wouldn't be a bad sort of place—not half bad, don't you think?

How would it compare with the heaven of the men and women who are forever grumbling and complaining, fault-finding and back-biting, playing the hypocrite and acting the fool?

Dogs are dogs wherever and whenever you meet them, but men and women are different in that they are not always what they seem, nor always dependable.

The Ohio Campaign.

It is extremely probable that in seven weeks of campaigning the people will get enough of the real politics—not the dog-day variety. Especially is this true when it is remembered that when the Republicans once start their campaign it is a "hummer." Just at present the Democratic plurality is anywhere from 50,000 to 200,000—according to the victims of the heated term. When it gets cool in November, Ohio will have the usual Republican plurality.—Cincinnati Times-Star

CARNEGIE IS BLAMED FOR MORE TROUBLE

Teacher of English Says He Is Cause of Publication of Many Badly-Written Books.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A new accusation has been laid against Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the once Pittsburgh steel master. This time it is a Gotham teacher of English who makes the charge, and it is no less a crime than being responsible for the publication of the great number of badly written books that flood the country annually. Of course, Mr. Carnegie is not charged with being the direct criminal—the publisher is that—but the former Pittsburgher is charged with being an accomplice before the fact. And this is the way the gentleman puts his charge:

"The number of public libraries in the United States is the cause of the publication of so many books that should never be published. Each library purchases two numbers of each book, and the publisher therefore knows that he will have a sale for about 5,000 copies of each book that he publishes. That exhausts the first edition, and another is immediately printed, marked 'second edition,' which makes the public believe that it must be a good book or the first edition would not have been so rapidly exhausted. Therefore the sale of the second edition is rapid, and a third edition is made possible. There is a profit on the first edition, a better one on the succeeding editions, and in the end the publisher has a good addition to his bank account, brought him by a book that is not worth the price of white paper. If he had not the assurance that he could sell enough of the books to the public libraries to cover the cost of publication, he would be more careful in the selection of matter to be published, and the public would thereby be saved from a lot of trash."

Which makes it very plain, if his argument be true, that Mr. Carnegie is largely responsible for the cheap literature, since he is responsible for a big share of the libraries in the country, if not the majority of them.

Out-Door Life for Consumptives.

The most talked of item in the newspapers of the last week is the new cure for tuberculosis reported from the Post Graduate hospital. It is at least certain that some good results have been obtained, else an institution of such standing would not have fathered the idea. Whether a panacea has been discovered remains to be seen, and that is almost too much to be hoped for. The physicians of the city—and other cities as well—are inclined to be a little skeptical, but we all know that most physicians are inclined to be like the famous Missourian, for which we should be very glad. If the doctors accepted every new nostrum at the value assayed by its discoverer we would all have our troubles. However, none of the physicians declare that the new remedy will do no good whatever, since consumption is largely caused by malnutrition, and the new remedy simply serves to supply needed nutriment to the system.

Fresh Air Is Mostly Needed.

One of the beneficial points of the treatment at the Post Graduate hospital is that the patients who are not confined to the hospital shall come to the institution twice each day for treatment. This compels them to be out in all kinds of weather, whether they are so inclined or not, and fresh air is as much needed in the cure of tuberculosis as medicine. In fact, medicine is very little used, and fresh air, sunshine and good food is everything. The greatest trouble is to get people to go out on rainy days. They hang around the house with windows closed and the atmosphere stuffy until they loose all their energy. The management of the Post Graduate hospital has hit upon one scheme, at least, that will do the patients a world of good.

The Visitor Within Our Gates.

A glance at the long list of Pittsburghers who are registered at the New York hotels is enough to convince any one that Pittsburghers are fond of little trips away from home. Also it is certain that business must be good down that way, since great troops of buyers for the big retail stores of every kind are now in the city. But the vacationers are also here seeing everything that is worth while. Among the callers at The Gazette bureau during the past few days was Francis P. Smith, editor of the Pittsburgh Catholic, who ran over from Asbury Park, where his family is summering, for a few days in the metropolis. Another caller was Brother Andrew of the Carmelite monastery, who is here as the guest of a former Pittsburgh newspaper man.

The Invincible Reserve.

With a present strength of 60,000 and a possible 100,000 in time of war, our regular army may seem to be somewhat of a pigmy, but let any foe attack and 10,000,000 would spring into being, and it is historic that every American is a natural marksman. This nation of free people, wedded to each other by the brotherhood of the eagle, is a standing army of men, women and youths.—Baltimore American.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN ON WEDNESDAY NEXT

The Wonderful Phenomenon of the Annular Event and Methods of Observing It.

A great astronomical event, a total eclipse of the sun, will occur on Wednesday. It will be visible along a belt running through the eastern half of North America, the whole of Europe, Western Asia and the north and central portions of Africa. The eclipse in the United States will not be visible west of a line drawn through Fort Belknap, Montana; Cheyenne, Wyoming; Las Animas, Colorado; Camp Chadbourne, Austin and Indianola, Texas. The path of totality extends from a few miles northeast of Winnipeg, Manitoba, eastward and a little to the north, to James Bay and Labrador, then bearing a little to the south it crosses the Atlantic ocean. The best locality for the observation of the total eclipse will be the east coast of Labrador. We shall see here but a partial eclipse.

Fairly Long Eclipse.

Sir Robert Ball, author of "The Story of the Heavens," describes the sun's eclipse which scientists from all over the world are gathering to see in Labrador. "There have been many eclipses, and as a rule not a great deal of interest is taken in most of them, but there are special reasons why the present phenomenon commands unusual attention. Let us not usurp an astronomer's function, but quote from Sir Robert:

"In the first place, the duration of totality at the best stations is fairly long. The complete obscuration of the sun will last for 3 minutes 50 seconds. No doubt under a combination of favorable circumstances eclipses can and do sometimes happen in which the duration of totality, as it is called, is considerably greater. In some eclipses it has been indeed nearly twice as great. On the other hand, in many total eclipses which have been deemed worthy the attention of the astronomer the precious seconds of totality have been barely half as many as those which will be available in the present eclipse."

Points of Vantage.

Scientists will not have to penetrate the Sahara desert or climb the Himalayas to witness next Wednesday's eclipse. In the north of Spain it will be plainly seen about noon, and at Burgos, or a spot about one-third of the way from Saragossa to Madrid, European observers will gather. Moreover, they are reasonably sure to encounter clear weather at this time of the year in Spain, which is an advantage, as an eclipse is much more successful when it can be seen. There is less danger then of the astronomers being in the position of the "Innocents Abroad," who arose at an unearthly hour to see an Italian sunrise, and stared intently into the western horizon until one of the party became sunstruck. Whether equally favorable weather will prevail in Labrador is doubtful. It may be mentioned that an eclipse of this kind can be observed on a bright day, when the sun is high in a manner which, though it may not be actually instructive from a scientific point of view, is certainly pleasing and picturesque. This observation is made, strange to say, not by looking up to the sun, but by looking down upon the ground. When the sun throws a shadow of a tree on the road, the rays of light passing through interstices between the leaves form bright spots, which, though we may not ordinarily notice the fact, are really images of the sun. When a large part of the disc of the sun is eclipsed then the bright part is reduced to a crescent, and consequently each of the myriad little solar images on the ground presents to us beautiful crescents.

Course of the Shadow.

The course of the shadow is graphically described by a prominent scientist: "Over the Atlantic the black spot rushes. Generally, of course, the shadow is cast upon a mere waste of water, but it may no doubt occasionally happen that the mariner has to record in his log that he was overtaken by the shadow, that broad day was suddenly transformed into night, and any lights which happened to be burning on the vessel would then stream forth into the gloom with unexpected brightness. As the Greenwich clock shows 12 minutes to 1, the sun being now high in the heavens, and consequently the opportunities for observation being at their best, the Atlantic journey is over, and the shadow enters Europe near Cape Finisterre. For about 25 minutes the course lies through Spain, and then the Mediterranean is reached. The sea is crossed until Tunis is entered about 1:40. Then again follows a passage over the sea until Egypt is entered at 2:04. Twenty minutes later there is a crossing of the Red Sea, and now the earthly journey of the shadow is drawing to a close, and it ends in Arabia at 2:32, having occupied 2 hours 45 minutes in its course from Canada. At the ends of its track the duration of the totality is about two minutes, and it is nearly double as long in the central part of the track."

Two Hours of Observation.

From Egypt to Labrador on Wednesday scientific photographers will have costly cameras ready to record impressions of the eclipse. In no place will the phenomenon continue for more than four minutes, so that the opportunities of individual observers will be extremely limited, but considering the widely scattered points at which astronomers will be posted, there may be a chain of photographs taken for two hours. The importance of this will be appreciated when we bear in mind one of the principal problems which it is hoped this eclipse may enable us to solve. The mysterious Corona, well shown in the admirable pictures taken on April 16, 1893, by M. J. Kearney in West Africa, is certainly not a permanent structure; it is in constant movement and in the intense energy of solar activity the movements take place with such rapidity that in the space of a couple of hours such large changes take place as would be quite conspicuous on the two photographs taken at such an interval. The experience of former eclipses has shown this to be the case, and it may reasonably be expected that further light will be gained by the opportunities afforded on this occasion.

Economy of Weather Reports.

In spite of the standing jokes about the weather man, it is probable that for every dollar spent on the weather bureau $10 are saved. At the time of the Mississippi flood of 1897 $15,000,000 worth of live stock and other property were saved as a result of warnings issued a week ahead. Signals displayed for a single hurricane have detained in port vessels valued, with their cargoes, $25,000,000. The West Indian stations, established in 1854, inform us of hurricanes as soon as they begin. The course of the hurricane that caused the Galveston flood was charted for a week before it struck our shores—for hurricanes move slowly. Eighty-five per cent of the forecasts now come true, and by the aid of rural free delivery 25,000,000 forecast cards were distributed last year to farmers, many of whom could not have had them five years ago.—Country Life.

THE DEAR ONE.

I.

Dear little hands and dear little lips
That come every day to greet me,
Dear little laugh that rings like gold
And dear little feet that meet me.
Your care-free ways and your daily days,
And your days as a childhood rover,
Will vanish and fade in the fleeting years—
To soon will they all be over.

II.

Dear little arms that around me twine,
And dear little head close nestling;
The sweet, sweet dreams that are your's today,
What come in your peaceful resting.
Your childhood dreams, like summer gleams,
The fleeting years will prove,
But that keep your heart like the lily flower—
As pure and sweet forever!

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Gossip Picked Up at Pittsburgh Hotels and Stations.

It's a big event in a Chinaman's life when he puts fresh oil on his queue and puts on his belongings to return to the Flowery Kingdom. At the Schenley a Ohio visitor last night were Quing Yet and Lem Yee, two prosperous laundrymen, who are making their way homeward. Fifteen years ago they came to America and have worked in Pittsburgh and other large cities in putting the gloss on white shirts. They have a fortune, according to the Chinese estimate, and will be independently rich when they reach home.

In honor of their trip homeward each was treated to artistic robes, resplendent in much fine silk embroidery. They had scraped together and each carried a shop suey stock in a Chinese basket. None of their countrymen was at the station to bid the tourists godspeed. The two Yees will not be allowed to return to this country, since the Chinese exclusion act will make their registration necessary when they land on the shores from San Francisco. They said that their example will be followed by many other Chinamen in the country. As a result of the Japanese-Russian war, they explained that business in China will invite investments by native tradesmen, and that every Chinaman with money will have an opportunity of becoming an official millionaire. This state of affairs will find many Chinamen in America to return home.

Incidentally, it might be remarked that the expression "oriental millionaire" is a practical term. If Rockefeller should try to turn his wealth into Chinese coin he would have stacks of it larger than the Frick building. A Chinaman whose pigtail is still well oiled and who possesses a few million yen is a wealthier man in China than Rockefeller was ever accused of being.

Prices Are High in Russia.

J. Caldwalder Owens, an attorney of Mobile, Ala., accompanied by his family, spent yesterday in Pittsburgh with friends, after a tour of Europe, which included St. Petersburg and other Russian cities. In the land of the czar, Mr. Owens said he found prices extremely high, and all classes of business experienced a decided slump.

"Hotel rates have advanced 50 per cent," said Mr. Owens, "and tourists are avoiding that country. A basket of fruit or a pint of milk costs three times the prices asked in this country. This is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that a few years ago prices in Russia were lower than those in England. The war taxes are being placed on everything and the people are groaning under the heavy burdens which are daily being added to their woes of bad government.

"I would accuse the Russians of lacking patriotism if I did not understand their administration and their traditional habit of secrecy. Two months ago in St. Petersburg I scarcely heard a mention of the war. In none of the towns did I find any demonstrations and among the more intelligent classes the people referred to the conflict with Japan as 'their war,' meaning the policies which were being carried out by the czar's advisers."

Political "Pariahs."

We are left to conjecture who Mr. Berry meant when he spoke of "other patriots." We have about a score of political pariahs in Armstrong county who would gladly answer the name of "patriot." They will get all the money they can out of the Democratic and mugwump leaders, to carry the county for Berry, and after the election will deluge these disgusted but too confiding gentlemen with an array of figures proving that the Republican majority in the county was less than at the last presidential election, and patiently await the next election for a chance to pose as patriots and get more boodle.—Kittanning Free Press.

BRADDOCK POLES DEDICATE CHURCH

Archbishop F. A. Symon of Poland Participates at Sacred Heart Exercises.

THREE THOUSAND IN PARADE

With a parade, in which 3,000 men and many bands participated as part of the exercises, and the Most Rev. H. A. Symon, archbishop of Plock, Poland, assisting, the new church of the Sacred Heart Polish congregation at Sixth and Talbot streets, Braddock, was dedicated yesterday.

The archbishop did not reach Braddock until 10:15 a. m., but by 8 o'clock Polish societies and their bands were parading the streets. Over 500 uniformed men, four bands and a score of carriages awaited the noted dignitary at the Pennsylvania depot to escort him to the church. The horses and carriages were decorated with plumes and bunting, and Archbishop Symon was conveyed in a carriage to which four white horses were attached. The pastor of the Sacred Heart church rode with him and the members of the church committee and visiting clergymen rode in the other carriages.

Immediately upon the arrival at the church the dedicatory services began. The auditorium was crowded to the doors and hundreds were turned away. The church was decorated without and within. Bunting and flags were festooned over the main entrance, and within the pillars were wreathed in smilax and spirineri. The music was furnished by a double octet directed by Miss Theodosia Tanska, organist of the church. Fifty little girls in white and carrying little baskets of flowers took part in the procession about the altar, depositing their flowers at the chancel. The service was impressive and there were 20 visiting priests.

The parade in the afternoon was the most spectacular event of the day. Three thousand men were in line, representing about 25 Polish societies from all over Western Pennsylvania. There were a dozen bands in the parade, including one negro organization. The uniforms represented the military style of every European country. Every society carried an American flag along with the society banner, and the bands played all the patriotic music of the American nation.

Archbishop Symon was entertained at the parochial residence, where an informal reception was held in the afternoon. At 4 o'clock he left for McKeesport to be the guest of St. Mary's congregation.

The new church cost $50,000 and is a handsome structure of cream brick, trimmed in brown. There are three small towers in front. The auditorium is built after the colonnade design, with pillars all the way from the doors to the altar. The corner stone was laid in July, 1904. The congregation was organized nine years ago by the Rev. Anthony Smelsz, pastor of the Holy Family church, Lawrenceville.

THOUGH IN BAD HUMOR, RIFLEMEN ATTEND CHURCH

Soldiers at Sea Girt Are Angry Because the Program Is Three Days Behind the Schedule.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 27.—A few of the Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio riflemen who are here for the national matches attended divine service on the club house lawn this morning, where Capt. J. Madison Hare, chaplain of the Third New Jersey, preached on the subject, "An Approved Score," but the most of them spent the day recreating at the nearby resorts or showing visitors, of whom there were hundreds, through the camp.

All are in bad humor over the delay in the program of the tournament which is now three days behind the schedule. The camp is guessing whether or not the national team match which was to end on Tuesday will be finished by Saturday night. The United States army officers who are running the shoot are blamed by the guardsmen for not breaking the cast-iron military routine, doubling up a bit and rushing the contests through.

The Ohio camp is jubilating over Capt. C. B. Winder's score of 255 on the first two stages in the national match, which gives them sixth place.

MAY AID TORPEDO BOATS TO GET INTO THE NAVY

President Roosevelt's Recent Submarine Trip on the Plunger Is Expected to Give Prestige to the Little Craft in General.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Since President Roosevelt has seen the submarine torpedo boat Plunger put through all its paces afloat and submerged in Oyster Bay, and is reported to have directed the navy department to give more pay to the enlisted men serving on this type of craft, naval officers are keenly interested to see whether more attention will hereafter be paid to submarines.

Although there have been submarines in the navy for several years past there have never before been so many on the navy list as are now carried. Despite this the preponderance of naval opinion has been that submarines are in an experimental stage as yet. No naval officer of prominence has come forward in active advocacy of their development. The scandal regarding appropriations for boats of the Holland type in congress three years ago has made most persons rather chary of appearing too energetic about the craft.

It is on every hand conceded that President Roosevelt in boarding the Plunger witnessed the maneuvers of the submarine under more favorable auspices than would have prevailed anywhere else in the navy. For more than two years Lieut. Nelson, who commands the Plunger, has been detailed to duty with subamrines. He knows more about them in all probability than any other officer in the service. He is resourceful and daring and an enthusiast concerning this branch of the naval service. If any one could persuade the president of the possibilities of the submarine it is felt that Lieut. Nelson is the man.

Eight submarines are already in the water or practically completed. Four Holland boats to cost in the aggregate of $850,000 were contracted for by Secretary Paul Morton just before he retired. They will be larger and more complete than any in commission. The boats of the Holland type thus far have had a practical monopoly of government patronage, the type of submarine built by Simon Lake of Connecticut having been accorded slight attention. Mr. Lake contended that he was discriminated against and affected not to care much and said that as many Lake boats as could be built were being sold to foreign governments.

Mr. Roosevelt, when assistant secretary of the navy, declared that torpedo craft were valuable, but that they required the backing up of heavier fighting ships. Mr. Roosevelt gives constant attention to questions of naval policy and it is now wondered if he is sufficiently impressed by the submarine to advocate the construction of more ships of this kind or is content as most naval officers have been to await future developments. The navy department has not yet received his order for the according of sea pay to men serving on submarines.

MADDEN MAY DECIDE TO SERVE HIS TIME

Kentucky Turfman May Return to New York to Answer for Contempt of Court.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LEXINGTON, KY., Aug. 27.—John E. Madden, the noted Kentucky turfman, who was sentenced to jail for 30 days by Justice Burr in Brooklyn Saturday, arrived here tonight to consult with his attorneys, former United States Senator William Lindsey and Morton, Webb & Wilson of this city, and pending this conference the master of Hamburg place refused to discuss the sentence imposed upon him by the Brooklyn justice, or his intentions regarding the serving of the sentence.

He said that he did not flee from the New York courts; that he had planned a week ago to come to Kentucky at this time to visit his two sons, Edward and Joseph Madden, who have been at the farm here all summer. Madden said he would remain here for some time; that he would prosecute his suit for divorce in the courts of this county; that he would also defend the action for alimony brought by his wife in the Ohio courts at Cincinnati, and that if it was thought advisable by his attorneys he would go to the latter place and give his deposition.

Should the latter course be decided upon, it is thought that the sentence of Justice Burr would be lifted, as it was for failure to give this deposition that he was held to be in contempt of court.

WILL CHANGE THE TRACKS.

Increased Facilities Make Alterations Necessary on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Greensburg.

GREENSBURG, PA., Aug. 27.—(Special.)—The alterations in the trackage of the Pennsylvania railroad through Greensburg, made necessary by the building of two additional tracks from the Southwest Junction to Donohoe, it is stated, have been determined upon. The Alexandra branch will run west of the present right-of-way from Sewash station to Carney tunnel.

The main line through Greensburg will remain as at present, the grading being reduced by the elevation of the tracks at the two grade crossings almost 20 feet. The Southwest branch will be carried along the present tracks. The plans provide for the tearing out of the local tunnel and the building of two stations, one in the old St. Clair cemetery, for through trains, and the other in Ludwick for local and suburban traffic. It is stated that the Radebaugh tunnel will be eliminated.

PRINCE RILES CANADIANS.

All Classes Are Sore Because He Will Only Stay One Night in Newfoundland.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 27.—At a public meeting held last night, attended by leading politicians of both parties, prominent merchants and other representative citizens, it was unanimously resolved to abandon the proposed ball and other civic festivities in honor of Prince Louis of Battenburg, owing to his intimation that he intends to spend only one night in St. Johns.

Indignation is general, all classes manifesting it. Gov. MacGregor, not knowing of the prince's decision to make only a brief stay, had arranged to cut short his important scientific expedition in Labrador in order to return here to receive the prince, arriving on Friday.

FIRE INSURANCE MEN FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE

Frank D. Dunbar and A. G. Marshall Are Wanted for the Alleged Embezzlement of $10,000.

Charged with the embezzlement of more than $10,000, Frank D. Dunbar and A. G. Marshall, alleged directors and officers of the Duquesne Mutual Fire Insurance Company, the Lafayette Mutual Fire Insurance Company and the North American Mutual Fire Insurance Company, are fugitives from justice and are being sought by the police. Warrants for their arrest have been issued from the office of Alderman McMasters.

Information was made against the men by Silas M. Kunkle of Ambrust, Westmoreland county, who was instrumental in exposing the alleged fraudulent operations of the two, and who, with Conrad Dipple, went before Judges Evans and Frazer and had a receiver appointed for the last two named companies. Harry E. Holman is made receiver. A charge of false pretense has been lodged against Marshall. The last information plainly charges them with the embezzlement of $10,000 and upward, and that "they took this money under pretense of selling valuable stock which was really valueless."

In various parts of the country agents for the concerns are at work, and it is said over $1,100,000 in policies is outstanding. Claims for damages by fire aggregating something more than $19,000 have not been met, and these losses are protected only by alleged worthless mining stock.

Detectives visited the offices of the companies in the Washington Bank building at Washington street and Fifth avenue and found them vacant. Not even the furniture was remaining. No trace of the men can be found. All that is left of the two companies are the liabilities and alleged worthless mining stock certificates representing assets of $190,300.

Kunkle says he became part owner and treasurer of the Duquesne company at the solicitation of Marshall and Dunbar and upon the payment to them of $1,500. He assumed his duties on July 27, and almost immediately became suspicious when he discovered that his partners were interested in the other two companies. The injunction he secured last Saturday restrains the issuing of further policies by the companies.

Attorney Frederick L. Kahle, who is acting for Kunkle, says the losses may be adjusted by a pro rata assessment upon all policy-holders. In this event the policies will then be canceled and the holders will lose not only the amount of the assessment, but the payments they have already made on their policies.

O. Furst, while Platt will be defended by ex-Judge John C. Love. The case will be tried before Judge Ellis L. Orvis.

CUNARD LINE STEAMER HITS MONSTER WAVE IN MID-OCEAN

One Seaman Almost Drowned in Rush of Water, Another Is Fatally Hurt and a Third Sustains Broken Ankle.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—One of those singular ocean happenings, and to which Cunarders seem not to be exempt, befell the Umbria on her voyage to this port.

Steaming against a westerly swell, the bow of the sturdy old liner dipped heavily into one of the deeper valleys, and a high swelling sea burst over her bow before she could recover from the plunge in a whole acre of foam.

Three of the crew were in the eyes of the bow at the time—Joseph Breen, a seaman, who was on lookout duty; Patrick Murphy, a boatswain's mate, and Robert Slade, a seaman. As the bow reared over the deep hollow and then dipped heavily into it they saw that the old liner—staunch and buoyant as she is—could not lift in time to meet the towering mountain beyond and instinctively grasped at supports as were near. The lookout dived behind the anchor bed and anchored himself to a ring bolt, and, though half strangled by the sousing sea, found himself safe when the Umbria, rising from out the turmoil, flung the flood from her bow.

The other two men were less fortunate. Slade had seen the toppling cliff and had turned to run for it. But his path was uphill, as it were, and before he could gain shelter the sea caught him and hurled him against a ventilator with such force that he received internal injuries which may cost him his life. Murphy was thrown to the deck with such force as to break his ankle.

It was regarded as singular that the accident had happened on a clear, sunshiny day.

TAMMANY CHIEFS ARE FIGHTING FOR MASTERY

Murphy and Sullivan in Friendly Bout to Control Fifteenth District.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, and Timothy D. Sullivan, who, next to Mr. Murphy, is the most powerful leader in the organization, are pitted against each other in a fight for the control of the fifteenth assembly district. This does not mean that Representative Sullivan is attacking the leadership of Mr. Murphy, whom he helped to make Richard Croker's successor. The contest in the Fifteenth is entirely local and may best be described as a "friendly bout."

George W. Plunkitt, one of the veterans of Tammany, is now leader of the district, and Thomas J. McManus is seeking to defeat him at the primaries. Mr. Plunkitt and Mr. Sullivan served together in the state senate, and it is said Mr. Sullivan's dislike for Mr. Plunkitt arose over some difference that they had there. Mr. Sullivan is planning to leave the house of representatives at the end of his present term and to return to the senate.

Mr. Plunkitt was defeated last year by Martin W. Saxe, a Republican, because of the Democratic revolt in the district. If he can hold the leadership, he hopes to go to Albany, and Mr. Sullivan does not care to have him there. This is the explanation given in Tammany for the interference of Sullivan, whose dominion is the Bowery, in a district fight which centers about Forty-eighth street and Eighth avenue.

DEATH AMONG LILIES.

Powerful Swimmer, Attempting to Rescue Women, Tangles in Water Plants and Drowns.

SCRANTON, Aug. 27.—Rudolph Franz, owner of Mountain lake, was drowned in the lake this afternoon, by becoming entangled in the stems of water lilies while trying to save two women who had overturned the boat in which he was rowing them.

The women reached out to gather lilies and the round-bottomed boat turned completely over. Franz, who was considered the strongest swimmer in these parts, started to swim to the women, and took a short cut through a mass of water lilies. He became completely enmeshed and before the two men, who swam out to the rescue, could save the women and return for him, he was drowned. When his body was recovered, it was found that his hands were firmly bound together by the lily stems.

HIDING PLACE OF BIGELOW FOUND

Public Works Director Mysteriously Disappeared Is Located at Lenox, Mass.

LARKIN CHASES HIS DOUBLE

The mystery of Director Bigelow's whereabouts since his disappearance from the city a month ago has been solved. It has been ascertained that while the director has been at various points in the east, particularly in New England, he is now in Lenox, Mass., where he and Mrs. Bigelow are quartered at "The Inn," a popular summer resort, where a number of other Pittsburghers are registered.

When Mr. Bigelow left Pittsburgh on his vacation there were persistent but vain efforts made to ascertain his destination by councilmen, politicians and others who desired to be in communication with him to gain orders for railroad passes and other favors.

Mr. Bigelow outwitted this class by keeping his destination a secret from even his closest friends and the officials at the city hall. He talked first of taking a trip to Norway, then of going back to his last summer's resort in the Allegheny mountains near Ebensburg, but when he departed he left no trace behind. There were rumors even that he had gone to Europe to hunt H. C. Frick. Mayor Hays said the other day he did not know where Director Bigelow was, but he expected him back in Pittsburgh the latter part of this week.

Controller Larkin, who has just returned from a vacation of two weeks, was asked last night if he had seen Director Bigelow while he was away. The controller said he saw a man who looked like Mr. Bigelow and followed him, to discover his mistake.

"I saw or heard nothing of Mr. Bigelow during my trip," said the controller. "Last Friday week, however, Charley Grady and I were out driving over to Donegal in Lancaster county, and when near the top of the hill at a place called Maytown, I saw a man who looked very much like Mr. Bigelow. He was afloat and going in the direction of Simon Cameron's Donegal home, and Mr. Grady agreed with me that the man might be Mr. Bigelow. He had a lot of documents under his arm that, from our distance, looked like hump plans or something of that kind.

"I urged Charley to drive up so that we might intercept him before he reached the mansion. He traveled pretty rapidly and had a good start, so when we reached the gate we found he had passed on and the man we followed was not Mr. Bigelow. I knew he was abroad somewhere, that he had close relations with Don Cameron, and it occurred to me he wanted Don Cameron's advice about some new project, and I wanted to be right on the spot when the plans were opened.

"I was not hunting Mr. Bigelow, but as he and I were from the same city and knew each other fairly well, there could be no harm in he and I looking over the same fence in a far-away county."

POLICE! RIOT! POLICE! IS THE ALARM RECEIVED

Patrol Wagon and All Police in Central Station Rush to the Hotel Anderson and Find Paper Burning Next Door.

"Thieves in Hotel Anderson!" came the alarm to the police and detectives in Central station shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, from the fire alarm bureau. Instantly there was a clatter of feet over the marble floors and a hasty exit of bluecoats and sleuths.

"A riot at Hotel Anderson!" came the second alarm a moment later, and the patrol wagon dashed down the alley followed by a remnant of officers who had not gone out in the first flight.

"More thieves in Hotel Anderson!" followed an instant later, and no one was left to obey the call but Desk Sergeant William Wallace, and the elevator man, but they were compelled to stay.

Meanwhile the hotel was a scene of action. It looked to the uninformed as if a convention of police was being held, while the limbs of the law were hurrying excitedly through the corridors. Then the truth dawned.

Some waste paper had caught fire under the stairway on the second floor of 314 Penn avenue, the adjoining building, and in his excitement in sending in the alarm from the hotel next door, some one first pulled the police hook, then gave the riot call, and finally concluded by calling for more police. He never once pulled the fire hook, and some one stamped out the fire.

STATE HEALTH OFFICER TAKING TIME FOR CHOOSING

Will Be in No Rush to Appoint His Assistants Until He Is Ready for Them.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Aug. 27.—F. Herbert Snow of Boston, who has been placed by State Health Commissioner Dixon in charge of the newly-created sanitary engineering division of the department of health, will report for duty tomorrow and immediately begin the work of organizing the bureau.

Mr. Snow, who arrived here tonight, said he realized it was a big undertaking to assume direct charge of the sanitary work of the department that has to do with the preservation of the purity of the waters of the state, and that it would require some time to get the bureau in working order.

Commissioner Dixon is taking his own time to select his staff bureau and it may be weeks before he is ready to appoint the 19 district health officers, the salary of whom is $2,500, authorized by the act creating his department. He has also deferred the appointment of the local registrars of vital statistics until this bureau is fully organized by the chief, Dr. Wilbur F. Batt of Philadelphia.

EAST END PASTOR RESIGNS.

Needs a Complete Rest and Will Leave the Pastorate of Christ's Lutheran Church September 1.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Smith, pastor of Christ's Lutheran church, Sheridan avenue, yesterday tendered his resignation to take effect September 1. Dr. Smith gave as his reason the need of a complete rest and has no plans for the future. He has been in charge of Christ's church for nearly 14 years and has seen the congregation grow from a very small one to one of 300 members.

In point of service Dr. Smith is one of the oldest pastors in the East End, he and the Rev. Dr. John Weidley, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, having taken charge of their respective congregations at almost the same time.

Dr. Smith is a member of the Pittsburgh Lutheran synod and of the general council and the strain of these duties and his pastoral work has been so great that he is at present under the care of a physician. During the past year the church has not only increased in membership, but the church edifice has been remodeled and beautified.

MANY LABORERS KILLED.

Explosion of Dynamite in Mexican Town Causes Great Loss of Life.

MAZATLAN, MEXICO, Aug. 27.—Twenty Mexican laborers were killed and a number injured by the premature explosion of a quantity of dynamite at the port works at Manzanillo recently. The bodies of those killed were horribly mangled. The remains were buried in a common grave at Manzanillo cemetery. It is said that the explosion was the result of carelessness on the part of some of the laborers.

The families of those killed have been indemnified by Col. Edgar K. Snoot, the contractor in charge of the Manzanillo port works. News of the tragedy was brought to this port by a steamer from Manzanillo. The time of the disaster is not stated.

AMERICAN ARMY OF INSTRUCTORS

One Teacher to Every Seventy-One Scholars in the Country Is the Showing.

FOREIGNERS FURNISH MANY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The census bureau has just published as a bulletin an analysis by Professor Walter F. Willcox of Cornell university of the census statistics relating to teachers. Calculating the schoolage as from 2 to 5, the report finds that taking the country as a whole there is an average of one teacher to every 71 pupils, or 140 for every 10,000. The computation shows that the supply of teachers in proportion to school population has more than doubled in the last 20 years, and that teachers exceed the total number of clergymen, lawyers and physicians.

In 1900 Nevada had the largest proportional number of teachers; Vermont ranked second, Maine third and Iowa fourth. The proportion of teachers will be smallest in some of the southern states. During the past decade the proportion has increased in every state and territory, the increase reaching a maximum in the state of Washington. The states of the north and west showed a greater increase than those of the south.

The bulletin continues:

The proportion of teachers in continental United States is smaller than in England and Wales, but greater than in Germany, France, Italy, Canada, Mexico or Cuba, and in the following states the proportion is greater than in England and Wales: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Ohio, Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Nevada, Washington, Oregon and California. During recent years the proportion of teachers increased in this country to a greater extent than in England, France, Germany or Canada.

The proportion of teachers in cities having at least 25,000 inhabitants is greater than in smaller cities or country districts. This condition, however, does not prevail in all divisions of the United States. In the North Atlantic and North Central divisions the larger cities are not so well supplied with teachers as the smaller cities and country districts, a fact which suggests the inference that where an effective educational system is of recent growth it has developed more rapidly in the cities, but where it has been established for a generation or more it has established a larger ratio of teachers to population in the slowly growing rural districts than in the rapidly growing cities.

The immigrant population contains proportionately fewer teachers than the negro population. The children of immigrants, however, have engaged in teaching to such an extent that the proportion of teachers among adults of this class exceeds the proportion among white children of native parents.

In continental United States, as in all countries for which figures were obtainable, the greater part of the teaching is done by women. The excess of female teachers over male is greater in this country than in any other.

In the larger cities of every geographic division in continental United States about four-fifths, or 80 per cent, of the teachers were women, while in the country the per cent of women teachers varied from 69.6 in the South Central division, to 77.2 in the North Atlantic division.

UNITED LABOR LEAGUE INDORSES O'DONNELL

Passes Resolutions Commending Special State Factory Inspector and Asking Retention.

"Whereas, It has come to the notice of the United Labor League of Western Pennsylvania that Hugh O'Donnell, special factory inspector, has become involved in a controversy with other officials as to his duties in investigating the sweatshop and other objectionable features in manufacturing various articles of merchandise and consumption in this vicinity; and,

"Whereas, We believe that the efforts of Mr. O'Donnell in the discharge of his duties have been productive of much good, both to the workers and the consumers, and that his continuance in office will be productive of further good; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the United Labor league, in regular session, heartily indorse the efforts of Mr. O'Donnell in this direction and hope he will be continued in office until the good work he is engaged in has been fully performed.

"Resolved, That Mr. O'Donnell be invited to address the United Labor League of Western Pennsylvania on Sunday evening, September 10."

The above resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted at a meeting of the United Labor league, held in their headquarters, 512 Smithfield street, last night. President John Fernau of the organization made a speech on the attack being waged against Mr. O'Donnell from a certain direction, and after a full discussion, all of which indorsed Mr. O'Donnell's position in the controversy, a committee was appointed to draft the resolutions which were adopted.

The credentials of the delegates of the American Flint Glass Workers were presented and the delegates seated. Credentials presented by delegates from the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' Beneficial and Protective association, were rejected. A protest was made by the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, and the league decided it could not admit representatives of a dual organization. The painters' delegates reported that the trouble at Schenley park had been satisfactorily adjusted.

CHILD LABOR LAW IS CAUSE OF MUCH TROUBLE FOR ALL

Factory Inspectors, School Authorities, Parents and Children Who Need to and Want to Work Are All in Difficulty.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Aug. 27.—With the opening of the public schools throughout Pennsylvania in September it is expected there will be a falling off in the number of applications for employment certificates under the law passed by the recent legislature for a more rigid factory inspection, and to abolish child labor in the factories and workshops in the state.

One of the greatest sources of trouble in enforcing this law has been the refusal of school superintendents and principals to issue employment certificates to children between the ages of 14 and 16 years who want to work during the summer vacation. The legislature failed to make any provision for the pay of school authorities for issuing certificates and many of them have refused to do so while others have issued them under protest.

The result is thousands of children have been deprived of work during the present summer because of their inability to secure certificates. Many of these children and hundreds of those now employed will go back to school when they reopen and they will have no need for a certificate.

Chief Factory Inspector Delaney says that the new law does not compel or contemplate that the host of children now at work under the law of 1901 should be forced to take out certificates; consequently, only children who never applied for work prior to May 2, 1905, when the present law went into effect, have received certificates under the new law.

One of the contentions of the textile workers of Philadelphia, who took an active interest in the passage of the new law, has been and is that Inspector Delaney should have summarily dismissed all children betwen the ages of 12 and 14 years holding certificates under the act of 1901.

"To do this," said Inspector Delaney today, "would impose a hardship on the two most interested, namely the parents who need the earnings, and the establishments employing children. My contention on this point is that I have no right to take from the child the property it has paid for.

"It would be as fair," he continued, "for me to compel a woman, who purchased a piece of dress goods or a pair of shoes to give them up, or throw them into the fire, as to force a child, who paid for a certificate to enable it to work, to give it up. Thus, you can see that men representing labor interests can be more unfair to their own people than those of us who are not members of any labor organization."

WAYNESBURG-BUTLER SERIES DECLARED OFF

Waynesburg and Butler will not meet in their much talked of $2,000 series. Before leaving Pittsburgh yesterday Sheriff Koebert, manager of the Waynesburg team, said Butler had refused to agree to the original propositions, and had asked Waynesburg to accept conditions that were not fair. According to Koebert Butler wanter to use Pitchers Mackown of Punxsy and Bonnett of Oil City. Koebert flatly refused to agree to this, claiming they were not members of the Butler team. Waynesburg, he said, would play its own men, and he wanted Butler to do the same thing.

"Before leaving Butler the people in charge of that club told me they were very sorry they were unable to do business with me," concluded Koebert. The $1,000 left with The Gazette by Koebert, for Butler to cover, was taken up by him yesterday.

The Niles team will play at Braddock today and tomorrow. George McClintock, Hugo Kruger, "Lefty" Boyle, local favorites, are with Niles.

Capt. Milt. Monigomery of the Waynesburg team intends to use Left Fielder Core on the rubber. Core is a southpaw and can pitch some. Last week he beat Butler in 10 innings.

Jim Shultz pitched good ball for Turtle Creek Saturday at McKeesport, but he received poor support. His brother, "Toots," however, had better success, shutting out Monongahela City with three hits for Brownsville. Earl Russell, another member of the Pittsburgh Collegians, pitched fine ball for Fayette City.

Marty Hogan says he has not seen a more nervy young pitcher on the circuit this year than Frank Eastley. Hogan thinks well of Eastley. Eastley has enough courage to get him through any company.

Riverview 11—First Ward 6.

The Riverview A. C. defeated the First Ward A. C. yesterday in a loose game. The features were the battery work of Broman and Sullivan, the batting of O'Leary and the firstbase playing of M. O'Brien. Score:

CHRISTIE BREAKS AMERICAN RECORD

Sends His Car Kilometer at Cape May in :23 2-5, Approaching the World's Mark.

HENRY FORD DOES IT IN :25

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CAPE MAY, N. J., Aug. 27.—Walter Christie, in his 120-horsepower auto racer, lowered his own and the American kilometer record on the beach here today to 23 2-5 seconds, and coming within 3 seconds of the world's record made at Ostend, Belgium. He won the Cape May $500 kilometer cup for this feat. The trials for kilometer records had been postponed from Friday.

Henry Ford of Detroit, in his 80-horsepower racer, made but one try and did the space in 25 seconds, equalling Christie's previous record. L. A. Campbell in his 80-horsepower car made the kilometer in 24 seconds twice today.

James Gordon Bennett's 120-horsepower car had two cylinders broken and did not compete for the Kilometer. Summary of today's trials:

Campbell, 25 1-5, 24 2-5, and 23 seconds; from standing start, 28, 24 4-5, 24 and 25 seconds. Henry Ford, 25 flat. Walter Christie, 24 2-5, 24 2-5, 23 4-5 seconds.

All attempts to lower the mile record today failed and Campbell's car, which made the mile in 38 seconds flat yesterday, was awarded the $1,000 Cape May trophy. Today's mile trial resulted:

Louis Chevrolet, 46 2-5 seconds; Henry Ford, 42, 41 1-5, 44 2-5, 41, and 42 seconds; Campbell, 40 2-5, 41 3-5, 40 4-5 seconds; Walter Christie, 43 4-5, 32 1-5, 32 2-5, 41 1-5, 38 1-5, 42 1-5 and 37 seconds.

PROSPECTS AT HARVARD.

Crimson Has Hopes of Championship in Football This Fall.

BOSTON, MASS., Aug. 27.—Although beaten on the gridiron, track, diamond and river by Yale, Harvard's hopes are high for the athletic contests this fall. After football eleven meets Williams on September 23, and early practice will be called to prepare for the game.

With "Bill" Reid at the head of a capable staff of coachers, Harvard expects to develop a winning team from the gridiron material at hand. Capt. Horley will lead the back field candidates. P. D. Starr has a lead in the competition for quarterback. He guides a team well. Squires, White, Brill and Parker, all good men, who played last season, will return to college and be available.

An experienced center is needed and the same old problems of securing ends will arise. Montgomery, Leary, Shurtleff, Hagen and Hall will be candidates for the positions. Talbot, from the freshman eleven, is expected to develop into a fast linesman and will probably do the punting if he makes the varsity.

The prospects for baseball next year are not good, however, on account of the loss of several capable players and the comparatively poor reserve material. Only Catcher C. Stephenson, Third Baseman C. Leonard, Rightfielder A. McCarthy and Centerfielder W. Dexter are left for the 1906 nucleus.

Now that James Wray has had time to know his material and proves the efficacy of his stroke next year, there is great hope that a Harvard crew will finally break Yale's string of victories next spring. In less than a month varsity crew candidates will be called out for fall training by Wray.

PIRATES READY FOR PHILLIES

Pittsburgh Expects to Take Majority of Games Played With Philadelphia This Week.

OTIS CLYMER COMES HOME

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, MASS., Aug. 27.—The Pittsburgh team left town Saturday night much pleased with the result of the Boston series.

"These Bostons were getting decidedly too bumptious," said Fred Clarke, "and were talking altogether too loudly about that little slip up of ours when they went to Pittsburgh last time. We soon put a spike in that gun. Four games out of five is not so bad, as there was never a time we could not have made it six out of six, a 12 out of 12 or any old figure.

"Our team is right on edge. The cool weather did it. If we could only meet those New Yorks again we would show 'em. Just wait till they strike Pittsburgh again, that's all."

Wallace batted for .428 in the three games. Howard has improved immensely in his work at first since Pittsburgh was last here.

Ty Seymour, Honus Wagner and the other young men looking for the batting honors in the National league are keeping an eye on High Daffy, who may yet play the necessary 15 games and lead the league in batting.

Clymer went to his home in Allegheny ahead of the club. Secretary Locke said there was absolutely no truth in the story that the other clubs had been asked to waive claim to him.

The Pirates tackle the Philadelphias on Monday, and have every expectation of landing a majority of the games played. There will probably be put on a double-header. Philadelphia, like all the eastern teams in the league, is considerably behind the schedule on account of the many rainy days of the summer.

Rumor has it that Capt. Fred Tenney of the Bostons will be made manager of the team or else traded by the Boston management. How would he do for Pittsburgh?

Pitcher "Vic" Willis of Boston says that Pittsburgh is the strongest team in the league.

EXPLAINS WHAT THE GOSPEL IS

The Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach Defines It and Discusses the Various Theories.

IT MAKES FOR LOVE AND TRUTH

"What the Gospel Really Is," was the title of the sermon preached by the Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach in the pulpit of the Reformed Church of the Ascension, Allegheny, yesterday morning. The pastor reviewed theories which have been expressed in answering this theological problem and gave his deductions and views on the question. He said in part:

A subject of such vital interest as the gospel is constantly compelling the inquiries of our souls, and we long to know what the gospel really is. Is it possible, we ask, to define it, shorn of all of the theories and philosophies which have accompanied the search for an answer, some of them working for good and some of them doing much to hide its true beauty and power. Some light may be gathered if we clearly set before us the teaching, the activity and the life of Christ. For after all He is the gospel. But He must be understood not according to this saint's view or that writer's conception. Christ must be known and His gospel, according to the clear and simple principles of His mission among men.

There are those who say the Bible is the gospel, and that nothing which has its origin in any other place is trustworthy. There are broad, intellectual minds who pronounce the gospel to be the truth of every kind and from every source. And many sane, practical beings insist that the gospel is specifically the life of God, the Father of love, dwelling in the spirit of love in all His children, and supremely in His son, Jesus Christ.

No one can deny the truth of each of these beliefs. But there are also limitations in each. We believe the book to be the word of God, but we do not believe that all of the gospel is in the Bible, or that all that is in the Bible is the gospel. Every writer had his coloring of belief. St. Paul's Christ is not the Christ of St. John. Neither one of them comprehended the Lord completely, nor did they comprehend him perfectly.

Turning to the conception which says that the gospel is the truth everywhere, we grow fearful with its eclecticity, but many a subject, true though it be, doubtful, would, if definitive to this idea, find an uncongenial place in the pulpit, because it would not touch us. It might serve with excellence the hunger of the deeply intellectual soul, but for the simple-minded it would seem to be almost profane to deal with what abstract ideas, and all sorts of speculations and theories. One thing we believe, the gospel is not a theory. All study and all efforts to reason things are productive of good, but the good for most of us in theories seems altogether remote. The gospel thus conceived is too vague, too lacking in vitality.

The spirit of Christ was to adopt the third conception of the gospel. There is an immediate appeal and a universal response to the God who is love, and our Father. The charwoman and the scientist may sit together in the same house of God; they may enjoy with equal good the story of the life of God, of our son-ship to Him, and of our love for Him and men.

The time will never come when the appeal of life to life will lose its efficacy, for love cannot be love without personality. Only persons have the gift of love. Only Christ makes hearts the world over joyous with life and love. Only He who has this life in full can impart life in like measure. We always associate the virtues of men with men; they may be talked about in books, but their power comes from persons. It is right, therefore, for the church never to lose Christ in the midst of reasonings. Without Him all ideas, beautiful and true though they be, lose their charm and their potency, just as in the state, for example, there is no real goodness, spite of constitution and laws, without living and loving men who incarnate the laws in their conduct and spirit.

But here is one danger. We are prone to look upon Christ as a striking exception, a being in the race, but not of the race. Hence we believe that to be a follower of Christ is somehow to superadd to our humanity something which was not there in the germ from our beginning. The gospel says that Christ is the most human of men, the most real of all of us, touching us at every point. He is not exceptional, but we are.

In His historic day He touched every heart because, if we may say so, He was infinitely like men, with a oneness and sympathy of one essence with theirs, rising supremely greater. So we come to this simple view of the gospel, devoid of any barriers; where humanity is there does the love of God enter in, and there, in some measure, the love of men goes out to the Father and their brethren.

We are to conclude, then, that everything in this consistent universe is the gospel, according as it makes for truth and love. God is as truly in the books of Euclid as He is in the story of the Nazarene. But the value of the gospel for the mass of men is according as it is disseminated among men to make their sense of sonship to and dependence on God deeper and purer; their sense of brotherhood with Christ and their fellows more vital and practical; their sense of the supremacy of the heart and the will more sure and abiding.

SUNDAY GAZETTE READERS TAKE TRIP AROUND WORLD

For the Low Fare of 5 Cents They Visit Every Nook and Nothing Escapes Them.

Readers of The Gazette made an interesting trip around the world yesterday for the ridiculously small price of 5 cents. No other expenditure, however great, could have been attained by the spender in bringing forth, in such full completeness, the events of the day as they transpired on earth, and at the same time furnish such abundance of entertainment and profitable reading as the pages of yesterday's Sunday Gazette. From the remotest corners of both hemispheres, as well as from the most densely populated communities, word was sent forth of any and every development that offered interest to man, woman or child.

Czar Nicholas of Russia declared himself as being opposed to the payment of any indemnity to Japan, while John D. Rockefeller was invited by a Paris newspaper to pay Japan's demands and thus end the war. Peace Envoy M. Witte expressed himself as believing the peace negotiations "all off." The famine conditions in Spain were vividly set forth and Germany's answer to France in the Morocco dispute was given.

Judge Eason in the Taggart case announced that Mrs. Taggart's fitness to care for her children was a question of more import than army garrison immorality. Paul Morton will make changes in the directorate of the Equitable Life Assurance society. Chicago job printers strike for an eight-hour day. Seven New York clubmen will build a club house for their exclusive use. The identity of the woman for whose honor New Yorker is said to be serving a penitentiary sentence, is to be made known. President Roosevelt witnesses the launching of a torpedo from the submarine boat. Wheeling citizens demand an examination of Ohio county jail methods.

Beaver county Republicans will weed out disloyal members. Candidate for State Treasurer Berry will ignore temperance meetings during his campaign. John W. Kern of Indiana is being boomed for the next Democratic presidential candidate. Excitement is promised in the coming West Virginia congressional elections. Democrats of Ohio open the state campaign at Newark. New rules for the government of the Republican city committee are ready for adoption.

Trees in Pennsylvania nurseries are to be inspected by state officers. Erie firemen save 18 lives, but Capt. MacMahon is burned alive. Pittsburgh is promised a 200-mile trolley loop.

South Side millwright attempts to kill wife and commits suicide. Surveys along the Allegheny river are thought to have been made for Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh line into this city. A litigant says he did not sign judgment note, because he cannot write English. Armstrong county attorneys deny responsibility for losing a damage suit. The city secured an injunction against a gas company.

Ormondale won the rich Futurity and Pittsburgh defeated Boston in a pitchers' battle. The Buffalo team defeats Pittsburgh in a lacrosse match, while Millvale drops a 20-inning game to Shaner team in the County baseball league.

New York stocks closed steady to firm, after opening lower. The New York bank statement not as unfavorable as looked for, but surplus reserves were lower than any corresponding week for 10 years. The lines try to break wheat prices in Chicago.

Aside from the wide scope covered by the news columns, the fiction, home journal and comic sections were filled with all that was good and timely, and the classified section offered golden opportunity to satisfy the needs of both capital and labor.

EARLY CHURCH AND ITS VICTORY

Allegheny Pastor Compares the Conditions Existing in Rome With Those of Today.

HOW 'THE PLACE WAS SHAKEN'

"The Early Church—Its Struggles and Victory," was the subject of the sermon delivered in the Shady Avenue Christian church, Allegheny, yesterday by the pastor, the Rev. Grant E. Pike. He reviewed the conditions existing before the advent of Christianity and the conditions existing today. Taking for his text Acts, iv:31, "And when they had prayed the place was shaken," he said in part:

Enjoying the privilege of public worship as we do today, it is difficult to realize the struggle of the ancient church to establish Christianity. The Christian religion is now popular and respected. Its principles have permeated all our institutions—societies, lodges and governments. We grant that they are by no means perfect, not even the church itself, but we forget that a great change has come over the world since the day of Pentecost. The overthrow of the ancient world and its subjection to the principles of Christ was the greatest revolution which European humanity ever experienced. In the language of our text, "The place was shaken."

This is the astonishing fact of history—the conversion of the old world to Christianity. This was done not by mighty men or great institutions—"for God hath chosen the foolish things of this world to confound the mighty; and the things which are looked upon as base and the things that are despised to bring to naught the things that are."

When Christ died he left but a handful of followers. Not many for such an important work. They were poor, uneducated in great schools, and without fame or social and political standing. They were even of a despised nationality. They had followed one who had been judged and cast out by his own people and had died upon the cross. The task before the disciples was great. According to the Roman law no one was permitted to advocate or establish a new religion. No one dare proclaim a higher power than Caesar. And temperance, justice, prudence and courage—the cardinal virtues of ancient civilization—had given way to flattery, treachery and violence; while love, kindness and mercy were considered effeminate and unmanly. The world was ruled by the rich and noble. At their feet were the slaves who were once prisoners of war. Between these two extremes was the poor freemen consisting of beggars, legacy-hunters, singers, actors and astrologers. The corpses upon which they fed were the large capitalists who squandered at Rome—or other large cities—what their ancestors had made by governing the provinces and exacting large taxes. Feast days were exceedingly popular. Some of them lasted for 60 and others for 123 days. Their amphitheaters would hold from 30,000 to 385,000 people. In these wild animals would be turned to devour one another, and even men and women were thrown to be their prey.

But the astonishing thing is that all this has been changed, the place has been shaken. Christianity has been victorious. What was the secret of this victory? We believe it was brought about by the consecration of men and women to live by the power of the Holy Spirit. This is the secret and power of Christianity, that Jesus Christ may live in us, to redeem us and give us freedom from outer circumstances and inward strivings. By His power alone may we reach our highest perfection and eternal life. This message is the gospel which is the power of God unto salvation. Receiving it shakes—changes—our lives, and in proportion as men and women gather together and labor to further the word of Christ will the place, our homes, community or government be shaken.

MINISTER ARRAIGNS SECRET ORGANIZATIONS

Sharply Criticises Fraternal Societies in Sermon on "What the Church Stands For."

Under the sermon title of "What the Church Stands For," the Rev. Shuman W. McCorkle, pastor of the Versailles Methodist Episcopal church, delivered a scathing arraignment of secret and beneficial societies from his pulpit last night. He said in part:

Any consideration by men of the church of Christ which does not include a careful scrutiny of its foundation is superficial. The church shares with the home the distinction of being founded by divine hand. Of no other organization, however worthy, can it be truly said, "He fashioned the foundation stones and set them in their places."

While there is common agreement among men as to the worthiness of many fraternal and beneficial organizations, yet slight penetration only is required to see the mushroom character of many so-called secret societies whose chief aim is their insurance clause, so worded as to make the whole transaction nothing but polite robbery. Some such institutions have extended rituals in which the holy Bible conspicuously figures. What frauds and villainies have not sought cover under the blessed book?

The church of Jesus rises up in an eternal protest against that which is false in the life of the people and their leaders. It would drive from its altars, with hot indignation, men of unclean hands and flames out like a mountain on fire against the desecrator of its Sabbaths and other holy days.

And yet it must be said to the shame of some of its consecrated ministers, in this time when the church is in measure dominated by the world, that they are silent when the command is to "cry aloud and spare not."

MANY GIFTS TO HIGHLAND ZOO

Full-Grown Coyote and Snake Are Donated During the Week by Individuals.

CONTEST TO NAME CUB LIONS

A full-grown coyote, which can distance the fleetest greyhound, has been imported from its home on the western prairies and is on exhibition at the Highland zoo. The animal was donated several days ago by A. B. Lear & Brothers of 2533 Carson street, South Side. The snake collection is constantly growing. A rattler was contributed by W. McK. Scott of Finley and Meadow streets, Twenty-first ward. The snake was caught at Ridgeview park, near Mr. Scott's summer home.

One of the prizes of the reptile exhibit is a racersnake, which was donated by P. A. Ganster of the Liberty Hunting and Fishing club. The snake was captured at the club's camp.

The publication in The Gazette last Monday that Superintendent Ernest Tretow had two baby lions at the zoo, for which he invited suggestions for names, caused a pretty contest. A couple of scores of replies were received and from among these Mr. Tretow selected the names of Romeo and Juliet. One of the cubs is a male and the other a female. Some of the suggestions were curious, in several instances parties suggesting male or female names for both cubs.

A woman in Curwensville, Pa., who seems to be an admirer of Mr. Tretow, suggested that both of the animals be named for the superintendent. She suggested "Tretow" for the female and "Ernest" for the male. Most of the replies were from children. The following were among the suggestions: Pauline, Paul, Russia and Japan, Jason, Juno, Buster Brown, Hub and Cub, Teddy and Alice, Senator and Major, Bowser and Towser, Trail and Lead, Madeline and Richard, Heck, August and Augusta, Pency, King and Queen, Betsey Rose and Theodore Roosevelt, Dewey, Rose Highland and Velt Highland, King Bruce, Sir Walter Scott, Robert Burns, King Edward, Paul Jones, Queen Victoria and King Edward, Alice Roosevelt, Eleanor, and last, but not least, Cassie L. Chadwick. The two lion cubs will be on exhibition next Sunday.

Thousands of people visited the zoo yesterday. As on previous Sundays, the most popular attraction was the snake exhibit, which now numbers 22 specimens.

The usual proportion of visitors were at the Phipps conservatory in Schenley park, but for one person at Schenley there were almost a hundred persons at the zoo in Highland park.

Large crowds were in attendance at Kennywood park yesterday afternoon and evening. The Homestead Library band gave concerts afternoon and evening. There were two soloists—Cyrus Ecker, euphonium, and Leon L. Handzlik, cornet. In the afternoon Taylor's "The Citizen Soldier," Von Suppe's "Poet and Peasant," Casey's comic series, Dalby's symphony No. 2, selections from Offenbach's compositions, Atherton's beautiful tone picture, "Southern Breezes," and Alexander's "Patriots of the Potomac" were played. In the evening, Sousa's "Semper Fidelis" was a pleasing number, while Rossini's overture, "William Tell," was accorded the usual applause. The fine descriptive number, "A Hunt in the Forest," and the ballet de suite, "Anthony and Cleopatra," including Gruenwald, "In the Arbor;" "Dance of the Nubians," solo dance, and "Anthony's Victory," were well given.

Hundreds of people went from the city yesterday to the trolley parks outside of the city limits. Each of the parks had an excellent program. At Calhoun the concerts were given by Nirella's Fourteenth Regiment band. The band concerts were supplemented by "The Great Heywood," half man and half woman singing artist. He has a novelty character act, dressed half as a woman of fashion and the other half as a man in evening dress. Robinson and Grant, the midget comedians, and Waldorf and Mendez, in their sensational acrobatic stunt, were there.

Oakwood had the Second Brigade band, with Peter Danhardt, leader. Lillian Bender, violinist; Myers and Rose, jugglers, and McCarthy and Reina, assisted. At Southern the Rocereto Concert band played to large crowds afternoon and evening. The band concerts were supplemented by the Aerial Weavers, who do a thrilling trapeze act, and Romney and King, singing comedians, sang several of the latest song hits.

ARE PREPARING FOR CUSTOM-MADE HEAVEN

Editor-Clergyman Tells of Fallacy of Not Considering the Preparation for Us.

The Rev. Dr. W. R. Warren, editor of the Christian Worker, occupied the pulpit of the First Christian church, Allegheny, yesterday evening and preached from the theme: "The Custom-Made Heaven." He cited the fact that much attention was being given towards a preparation for heaven, but too little in considering heaven's preparation for us, and said in part:

We talk much and rightly of our preparation for heaven, but little of heaven's preparation for us. In this world most of us have to take most things ready-made and adjust ourselves to them as best we can. The Saviour's declaration is: "I go to prepare a place for you." The word at last will be, "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you."

Considering our individual needs, and knowing them better than we can, He prepares for each the joys he can best appreciate and all that his soul is capable of holding. Indeed, heaven is within and of ourselves. We enjoy it in this world in ever increasing measure. Its perfection comes after death, because then we are freed from the clogs and weaknesses of the flesh.

We use not only ready-made but unlabeled goods. There His name shall be on our foreheads. That which He shall have wrought in us will be such that even He need not be ashamed of it. As the sun is superior to our sprinkling, as the spring showers are better than watering-pots, so is the joy God provides better than the pleasures man devises for himself. The most absurd thing in this world, and one of the most pitiful, is a soul staying away from Christ to enjoy himself. Refuse to go to the bank for money, to books for knowledge, to the river for water, to the mine for coal, but be not such a fool as to stay away from God for peace and joy.

Ready-made or custom-made, the things we get here never satisfy us. There are no contented men in the world. But even the portion of heaven that is already built in the Christian's heart is so satisfactory that you never find one to complain of his bargain. Sometimes a person comes into the church without letting Christ into his heart, but even such are generally honest enough to admit that their failure is no fault of Christ's.

Ready-made heaven, if there were any, could be had without notice at death or the judgment, but God does only custom work. We must get in our orders in time. This is especially necessary because He allows us to have a hand in preparing our own heaven. There is no other use for time except this. How then can we expect to enjoy eternity when we have idled and sinned away our time? Heaven can be given only to those for whom it is prepared; not because God is arbitrary, but in the very nature of things.

Doings at Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—(Special.)—A perfect day for the promenaders, the yachtsmen and the automobilists had too much chill for real comfort for the bathers, and the devotees of daily surf baths were unhampered by excursionists who shivered as they lobked at the lightly-clad swimmers.

Former Gov. Walter Lyon of Pennsylvania was on the boardwalk today. Mr. Lyon spent the day at one of the big Chelsea houses as the guest of W. P. Street and Mrs. Street of Philadelphia.

J. M. Richards, a mine owner from West Virginia, had heard tales of the necessity of money for a pleasurable trip to Atlantic City and he brought along his roll. When he registered at the Shelburne he pulled out a wad of thousand dollar bills and keeping one for immediate use, handed over $50,000 to the clerk for safe keeping. A guard has been placed on the hotel safe until the opening of banking hours tomorrow and the owner of the roll is receiving the very best of attention from hotel employes, who hope that he may break one of the big bills for distribution when he leaves.

F. M. Smut, Mrs. Smut, F. G. Smut and Mrs. Denny Smut arrived yesterday in an automobile, after making most of the trip from Portland, Ore., in the machine. They enjoyed the trip, although the auto had to be carried over the Rockies in a freight car.

A sailing party made up of guests of the Hotel Princess enjoyed a delightful ocean trip on the yacht Matilda. Included in the party were Mrs. Vandergrift, Miss Turner and Mrs. J. Johnson of Altoona, and Miss Jane Young and James Wardle of Pittsburgh.

A party of Pittsburgh women folk, who returned from a successful crabbing party to the Grand Atlantic yesterday, caused consternation among the hundred or so guests gathered on the porches, when a basket of the crustaceans broke loose and took undisputed possession of the place. A mouse could have created no more alarm among the women folk and porch railings and chairs were in active demand until the crabs had been captured. In the crabbing party were Mrs. S. P. Alder, Miss Adler, Miss E. P. Young, Miss Blanche A. Brown and Miss Olive P. Brown, all of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. S. B. Goldsmith and Miss Elinor Goldsmith of Pittsburgh are active in the social pleasures arranged at the Hotel Seaside.

Mrs. A. M. Chartener of Pittsburgh is chaperoning a lively coterie of Pittsburgh visitors at Chautauqua Presents Extremes of Raiment on First Real Chilly Day.

SEASON IS ABOUT ALL OVER

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Men clad in straw hats and overcoats and women in light gowns and heavy wraps made rather an incongruous appearance today, but the bright sunshine and cool breezes made an ideal day for the close of the most successful season in the entire history of the Chautauqua institution. During the 31 held since the first assembly was held, 1906 stands out clearly as the banner year in every respect.

An audience of nearly 3,000, more than twice the size of the audience of the corresponding Sunday of last year, assembled to hear the ninth and last sermon of the year, which was delivered by the Rev. Frank Bristol of Washington, D. C., who has a national reputation as a pulpit orator, and is also known as the pastor of the late President McKinley.

The Rev. James M. Thoburn, D. D., pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal church of Allegheny, had charge of the Bible study hour, and spoke on lessons from the potter's wheel. The assembly convocation address was made by Dr. Howard F. King of Uniontown, Pa. Bishop Vincent earnestly urged all parents to insist upon their children attending Sunday school, saying that the nation's stability depended upon parental authority. That his words were effective was shown by the large attendance at the various departments. Charles E. Munson had charge of the intermediate school, Miss Grace Barrett of the primary and Miss Phoebe H. Elliott of the kindergarten.

The sacred song service in the evening, at which Miss Freda Steuder, Mrs. Harriet Foster, Mr. Frank Coxton and Mr. Edward made their last appearance, completed the day's and the season's program.

Several prominent Pittsburghers, who have recently visited Chautauqua for the first time, are trying to secure private cottages on the lake front next year. One well-known real estate broker is negotiating for one of the handsomest cottages on the lake side.

Although the Hotel Athenaeum closes September 1, as do many of the larger cottages, a number of people will remain for several weeks.

Among the Pittsburghers occupying their own cottages who will remain after the close of the season are: Mrs. J. R. Gilmore of Sewickley, who will remain during September; Mrs. C. R. Hunter of Sewickley, who returns to the valley about the middle of the month; Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Knox and family, Mrs. S. C. McCullough and Dr. and Mrs. James R. Thoburn and family, all of whom return to the city about the middle of September. The Misses Rice of Sewickley will remain until the first of October. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. McKee of Howe street, Pittsburgh, who have been in Canada for several weeks, returned to Chautauqua last evening, and will not close their lake front cottage until October.

James B. Scott, with his daughters, Miss Mary and Miss Margaret, registered at the Hotel Athenaeum, will remain on the grounds after the hotel closes.

Miss Rebecca and Miss Belle Witherow of Allegheny are registered at the Muncie for three weeks' stay. Miss Anna Rhinehart Lazear, who has spent the summer at the assembly, goes to Buffalo to give a series of readings.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garland and family and Mr. and Mrs. William McCance and family are spending a month near Point Chautauqua.

Miss Rhoda J. Gray, Miss Margaret Davis, Mrs. A. P. Murphy, Miss Ellen Rogers, Frederick Guist, Mrs. George F. Miller, Miss Elva Miller, Miss Helen Miller, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Douglass, Miss Mary Douglass, Mrs. A. E. Spahr, Miss Anna Blakadare, H. E. Umbey, Miss Helen Umbey, Mr. and Mrs. H. Beidelman, Miss Annie G. Riheldaffer, Miss Mabel Hobensack and the Rev. George E. Spehlbride are registered today from Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Sara Wallace and Miss Margaret Wallace from Bellevue, Miss Agnes Cochrane and Percy E. Burtt from Allegheny, Mrs. Anna B. Lowe and Fred B. Lowe from Ben Avon, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Veil from Wilkinsburg, Miss Helen Rodky and Miss Mame V. Rodky from Oakmont and Mrs. Alfred Covert from Avalon completed today's register.

Will Build Three Mills.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 27.—(Special.)—It is said that the American Steel Company will soon begin work on the proposed 14-inch mill at the upper plant here as well as the skein mill and bar mill of the lower plant. They have been projected for some time.

ENGLISH LAD TO TRY FOR HONORS

Sidney Cartwright, Great Under-Water Swimmer, Anxious to Compete in United States.

HAS SOME GOOD RECORDS

(Special Letter to The Gazette.)

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Young Smutzer of Denver is not going to have all the honors of under water swimming to himself without a contest. A lad, two years his junior, is going out to the United States at the end of August to challenge anyone up to 17 years of age living on the American continent. His name is Sidney Cartwright and he hails from the neighborhood of Manchester, a district that has produced some of the best swimmers in Europe. Finney, whose under water swimming record of 113 yards 1 foot, has never been beaten, hails from this district; so does Haggerby, the long distance man, who made an attempt to swim from Dover to Calais last year. When Frederick Smutzer essayed the task of beating Finney's record here in April, 1904, and nearly succeeded, covering 112 yards 5½ inches in 2 minutes 2¼ seconds, the English swimming world regarded him as a prodigy. He was then only 16 years of age, while Finney was a full-grown man when he established the record.

Cartwright, who has only just left school, is physically a substantial young fellow, and a few weeks ago succeeded in remaining under water for 2 minutes, doing 111 yards 10½ inches. This is a world's record for a lad of 15 years of age. He has also defeated all boys of his age in a half-mile race in the open sea at Blackpool. This, of course, was not under water. Young Cartwright does not intend to make swimming a profession. He is going out to an uncle in Philadelphia, who wants to apprentice him to the engineering trade.

Frederick Smutzer is at present sojourning in Brussels and hopes to be in London in a week or two, when he is expected to visit the scene of his exploit of last year. During his residence on the continent he has been busy swimming and has had the honor of appearing before the German emperor. His friends in London say that he will follow Cartwright to the United States early in September, and as he has vastly improved he will put up a splendid performance. Cartwright's friends are, however, confident that the youngster has not yet shown his true form, but that when he is put to a test he will create a sensation in the swimming world. He will depend most on his staying powers, although in speed he is not lacking.

RESCUES VESSEL'S CREW.

Norwegian Lumber Bark Met in Mid-Ocean When Hope Seems Useless.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—When passing Lizard Head today on her voyage from Baltimore to London, the Atlantic transport line steamer Maryland signaled that she had on board the crew of the Norwegian bark F. C. Sieben, which she rescued in mid-ocean. She reported that she fell in with the Sieben August 24 in latitude 49 degrees north, longitude 20 degrees west, about 600 miles west of Lizard Head, and took the crew from their waterlogged vessel.

Before being abandoned the hulk was set on fire. When last seen the derelict was blazing fiercely.

SEASON'S OUTPUT AT NOME IS TEN MILLIONS IN GOLD

SEATTLE, WASH., Aug. 27.—United States Assayer Fred Wing, in charge of the local assay office, today said that his estimate of the gold output of Nome for the season of 1905 was $10,000,000. This amount will be the record for Nome and will exceed the output of last year by $3,000,000.

Can't Do It

Heart troubles do not get better without help. If the cause is not removed the heart continues to get weaker.

There are the outgrowth of exhausted nerve force, and as the heart cannot stop to rest, as do other organs, it must continue until completely disabled, and—that's the end.

On the very first indication of heart weakness, you can stop all progress and effect a cure by the use of

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

It feeds, strengthens and builds up the nerves and muscles of the heart. "I had heart trouble for years, pains in side, short breath, palpitation, smothering spells. Every exertion caused sharp pains and weakness in the heart. Am now on the third bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and the result is wonderful. Pains are entirely gone, and I sleep good, have good appetite, and think Dr. Miles' Heart Cure the best medicine in the world."

OPTIMISTIC SENTIMENT RULES IN WALL STREET

The Prediction Is Very General, Even by Conservative Men, That Prices Are Likely to Go Still Higher Before the Break.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Despite some nervousness on the part of the trading element, which was reflected in irregular price changes, the prevailing sentiment among leading interests in Wall street last week continued distinctly optimistic. Speech, to be sure, was given to concealed thoughts and to disguise action, but if the bankers and large operators of the city are to be taken at their word, then confidence in the country's industrial and financial future is abounding. Moreover, while admitting the possibilities of reactions, now that speculative securities have touched the highest point in the country's history, the prediction is very generally made, even by men who have in the past been reckoned as conservative, that prices are more likely than not to go still higher before the inevitable break occurs.

It is admitted that practically every ordinary index of trade supports the prevailing optimism as to industrial prosperity. It is scarcely necessary to enumerate again the highly favorable factors in the underlying situation, but as it becomes necessary in presenting two sides of a problem to refer to the unfavorable element, simple justice demands that the satisfactory features be fully presented. It is admitted then that the harvest prospects are excellent, and in the case of corn, brilliant, and that nothing points more strongly to healthy and sustained activity than the increasing demand for fuel for products of iron and steel, copper and textiles. Even now the beneficial results are manifesting themselves in expanding bank clearances, in sustained railway earnings and in other features indicative of expanding business life.

It is not to be wondered at, that, with so many favorable factors in the situation, and these underlying and basic, the spirit of optimism should be abroad, and it is in the order of things that the first reflections of it should be found in the volatile security market. It bids fair now, if it ever has done in the past, to run to its greatest excesses in that department. No markets are immune from the evils and disasters of overtrading, but from the very nature of things it has been manifested far more frequently in the security market than elsewhere. The phenomenon of overtrading is so well known as to require little comment. It always has a tangible basis at the outset, and is an outgrowth of favorable conditions, which promise a brilliant future, coincident with cheap money or easy credits.

Nothing is more peculiar than the psychology of markets. Optimism or pessimism alike prevail to the breaking point, and at the times the rank and file in the street are as confident that prices have no top as at other times they are certain that they have no certain minimum. Once create the general impression that favorable conditions are to develop still more favorably and continue indefinitely; that supplies will be inadequate to meet demand, or that an expected increase in material wealth will develop numberless prospective buyers, for wares or shares, and prices will advance to levels far in excess of value, and which under other conditions would be regarded as preposterous, even by those who participate in the movement.

Because of this governing influence of speculative markets, no one is ever able to say that because prices are high they will not go higher, or because they are low they may not decline the more. Upon the upturn the imagination is fed by all sorts of tales of prosperity and promise of riches, and upon the decline the tales of disaster are multiplied and exaggerated greatly.

In speculative markets it is, of course, impossible to maintain a permanent equilibrium between prices and value. Stocks continually gravitate between levels which are too high or too low. So far as the speculator is concerned it is all one to him, for his desire is action in either direction, and if sure of the tendency, it is as profitable to be a bear as a bull. Obviously the great manufacturers and dealers in the security market apply to their operations the rules of the merchant, buying when they know or believe that goods are cheap or at value; selling when profits can be realized or when the wares are high. To be sure, individual judgment may be at variance on the precise price for buying or selling.

The chief absurdity of Wall street is the blind faith of experienced speculators in the current fictions, which make the "big men" buyers at the top and sellers at the bottom. Their operations are the precise reverse. As the dupes come in the "big men" are getting out, firm in their conviction that they will be able to reclaim their stock holdings at lower prices again.

Of the present speculative market, no one can foretell how long the spirit of optimism will prevail or to what extent prices may be advanced.

It is a matter of such general comment in commission houses as to be practically unanimous that the abounding confidence displayed by the bankers and the large operators has not as yet communicated itself to what several generations of Wall street men designate "the public." That a somewhat limited group of very wealthy men are dealing enormously in the market is self-evident, but the general public that came in with a rush, only to meet with severe losses last December and again in April and May, is not participating in the movement to any great extent.

Wall street is confident that they will come again, and maybe they will, for advancing prices and tales of great fortunes to be made by stock speculation are well nigh irresistible. However, at present, the one comment that men hear from the merchant and manufacturer, in broker's offices, at the summer resorts, on railway trains, or wherever men congregate, is that stock prices are too high.

That Wall street leaders are confident in the future is clearly indicated by the fact that the banks are furnishing credit so abundantly to the large operators at such easy rates, in the face of such a condition of expansion, as is revealed by the recent reports of the controller of the currency, the state superintendent of banks and the local clearing house association.

It appears impossible to foretell the outcome of the Russo-Japanese peace negotiations at Portsmouth. That all apparently inconceivable difficulties would eventually be surmounted has unquestionably been the opinion of the important banking interests of the city, and they have held this view despite the more unfavorable reports of recent days. It is certainly to be hoped that peace may yet be accomplished. Whether the security market can disassociate itself from the incident should the outcome be otherwise, is a difficult matter to determine.

In view of the enormous advance in securities during the last year of the war it is difficult to see wherein it has been an adverse factor upon the local market, while, so far as foreign trade has been considered, Shatsha even stimulated by the supplies shipped to Japan and paid for out of the money raised here by war loan. But because the war has had no adverse influence on our market it is not wholly safe to say that the rupture between the envoys, the abandonment of peace negotiations and the resumption of active hostilities would be without influence.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—(Special Cable.)—Cheerfulness still prevails throughout the house. The advent of the settlement produced a slight unsettlement so to speak, but it was not much.

Through all the ups and downs of the peace conference there has been no setback in prices which could be considered at all serious. Indeed, there was throughout the week a hopeful feeling in the stock exchange that, in spite of the postponement of the peace negotiations, peace was assured.

On Wednesday, indeed, there was an exceedingly optimistic feeling, and the markets were all good. The feeling was not quite so favorable on Thursday, but still it was good also. If the hope entertained in the city be realized, every one looks for the broadening of the markets and a continued advance in prices, because the ground has been long prepared for improvement. Indeed, it may be remembered that just before the war broke out there were evidences that an improvement had already set in. Consequently, remembering this, city men hope—and they think quite reasonably—for very decided improvement now if peace be concluded.

Big operators have always held it to be a maxim that war is always followed by a boom, and in discussing the peace negotiations during the past week, operators have been talking about the anticipated boom, but it must also be remembered the last example of a big war, namely, that between Great Britain and the Boers, was not followed by a boom but by something of a very different kind.

In discussing the present outlook, however, it is pointed out by some that the conclusion of peace if it comes within the next month or two will coincide with the beginning of what is always the most active period of the year.

From about the middle of October till Christmas there is always activity. Money is accumulating all the time and no fear exists that holiday expenses will make any serious hole in it. Thus the city remains cheerful and thinks it can well afford to do so, especially in the American department, which is looking forward to the autumn to bring in its train a further rise.

For once in a while the Statist, usually very optimistic, sounds a note of a somewhat different character in considering the outlook.

"The mistakes of the government," it says, "have prevented a rise in consols, and while consols remain very low, it is difficult to believe that there can be a real recovery in the stock markets. Obviously, it is necessary that the government should provide a really effective sinking fund, instead of that which is now absorbed by the government for naval and military works, and therefore there has been no reduction of the debt, hugely as it was increased by the South African war. As a result there is disappointment everywhere, and the market is weighed down."

One feature of the week is a very remarkable one, for August has seen a prolongation of street dealings in Americans until nearly 8 o'clock some evenings.

This was partly due, of course, to the hope of receiving some late news of the proceedings of the peace plenipotentiaries, but even when there was nothing of this sort to expect, the market has been kept up with a good deal of briskness.

It is not to be implied from this that there was any widespread public interest in Americans.

While little outside professional business can be looked for in August, both the professional and semi-professional elements have been active, and London has on one or two occasions given quite a distinct lead to Wall street.

The general opinion here is that all the underlying conditions are favorable to Americans, though much of the activity is still due to market considerations.

Thus it is pointed out that, though the Reading outlook may be quite comfortable, the sharp rise this week was mainly accounted for by the belief that the large short interest saw a good chance of being cornered. It is thought singular that all the cable messages still point to a further advance.

Heavy shipments of gold to South America and the expectation that further amounts will be shipped thither and to Egypt is having considerable effect upon discounts.

The political outlook also induces caution, for if peace should be arranged between Russia and Japan it is anticipated here as a foregone conclusion that Russia would require a loan, while if the war continues Japan would no doubt find it necessary to have recourse to money of which the market has now command.

CIGARET FIEND CAUSES FIRE IN BOARDING HOUSE

Sparks from a cigaret, being smoked in bed by one of Mrs. J. Harris' boarders, at 1612 Fifth avenue, set fire to the bed clothes at 3:15 a. m. yesterday. The loss was $50 and one boarder, the cigaret smoker being let out by Mrs. Harris, so the police say.

Hurt in Getting Off Car.

Mrs. Johanna Shoop of 85 Atwood street stepped off a moving street car at Center avenue and Craig street yesterday morning. She was thrown violently to the street and received a cut in the back of the head that required five stitches to close. She was taken home.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN THE LOCAL MARKET

Heavy Advances Are Under Way in Price of Pork Products. Other Lines Steady.

The past week in the local markets has not been remarkable for any sensational feature. Flour has continued on the down grade, sugar and coffee have materially strengthened, canned goods have shown some improvement and the general line of trade has been about the same as it has been for several weeks. The volume of trade was, perhaps, not quite so large, but this is readily accounted for by the fact that it was the height of the vacation season, which makes a material reduction in all lines about this season of the year. The week's business, however, was a decided improvement over that of the corresponding week of 1904.

The green goods, fruit and produce lines all did a good business. Quotations were changed but little and the prices have got about to rockbottom. Dealers were generally satisfied with the way things were going and, while the volume of business was not quite so large, perhaps, as for the week before, still it was fair for the last of August and there were no complaints to be heard.

Within another week the heavy grape season will open. Grapes will be plentiful this season and should be cheap. The crop is abundant, but the control of the grape belt by the Grape Growers' association may regulate the shipments to such an extent that prices will be affected. The grape growers a year or two ago became tired of shipping into market without any regard to the demand. As a result of that policy thousands of fine fruit were lost entirely or sold at considerably less than the freight would amount to. An association was formed, into which most of the grape growers are now gathered. There is no attempt to control the market, but there is an intelligent study of its needs and an effort is made to prevent the waste and consequent tension which occurred under the old system.

There is a change on in the provision market which has been scarcely noticed by the public. It has been on for weeks. As a result the price of pork products is now at least 20 per cent higher than they were a couple of months ago. Each week quotations are advanced on about one-half the lines in the provision list. Goods that were selling at 10 cents a pound a couple of months ago are now bringing 12 and 13 cents. Everything in the list has moved up several times, until there is now one of the highest pork markets which has been known for years. The top is not in sight yet. There is every indication that prices will go much higher before the limit is reached. Why it is so no person rises to explain. Good hogs are not so scarce as all that, although many were killed off in this section last year on account of feed. I believe in pork products look for no relief until the farmers begin butchering in the fall. Hogs are plentiful in the country this year and the corn crop is an abundant one. These two features will do much to reduce the cost of provisions about the time the first good freezing weather comes.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts Saturday were: Pennsylvania, 7 cars hay, 5 cars corn, 11 cars oats, 1 car straw, 1 car rye; Baltimore & Ohio, 5 cars hay, 2 cars corn, 1 car feed; Lake Erie, 1 car hay, 1 car oats, 1 car straw, 5 cars rye.

The week was very steady in grain. Oats eased off some on account of heavy receipts, but the decline was comparatively small. Receipts of corn have not been heavy, but as the market in the west declined some this market followed. However, as the stock of corn in first hands is not large, there is every indication that prices will hold firm until the new crop starts to move. This will not be for several weeks yet. Most of the hay now arriving is new, and we will, therefore, quote new hay. Receipts are fair to meet the demand, hence there is a firm feeling on hay. There is no change to note in straw and millfeed.

Passionist priests from all sections of the country are assembled in St. Paul's monastery, South Side, for the purpose of convening in annual chapter. Yesterday was spent in seclusion and the celebration of masses.

Today the sessions will begin and questions of import will be discussed. An election of a provincial is to be held, this office being the principal one in the order. Other officers are also to be elected.

Arrest Suspected Wire Cutters.

Louis Redman and Monroe Heeney were arrested yesterday morning. They are accused of cutting and stealing a portion of the telephone cable between Dixmont and Sewickley a few days ago. They will have a hearing at the Center avenue police station this morning.

Mentzer Pays a Stiff Fine.

August Mentzer of 2635 Penn avenue, charged with annoying little girls, was fined $25 and costs by Magistrate Kirby yesterday.

STAMPEDE OF LONGS BROKE WHEAT PRICES

September Closed at Net Loss of 7-8—Corn Lower; Oats Higher.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Wheat exhibited weakness at the outset, many local shorts who had covered during the preceding session apparently seeing nothing in the early session to suggest higher prices. The ease with which their offerings were absorbed, however, discouraged selling and placed the market on a firm footing. September, which was off in the initial quotation 4@5c at 80¼@80½c, advance 6to 8lc. Although there were indications of rains in the northwest the tenor of crop news was satisfactory and the bullishness was attributed chiefly to firm cables and talk of large cash sales. From 81c the market for September delivery went off to 79¾c, with but little opposition. An estimate of 700 cars for Kansas City by Monday, together with weakness developing in cash markets of the northwest, started a rush to sell that took all the early strength and brought out stop loss orders in great volume for account of earlier buyers. At this bottom there was sufficient covering to bring about a slightly better tone. The close was easy at 79⅝c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 76,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 470,000 bushels, against 785,000 bushels a year ago, Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 240 cars, compared with 181 cars last week and 250 cars a year ago.

Corn ruled steady at slightly lower prices during the first half of the session. Country acceptances were light and overcome in a measure the bearish influences of weather and crop news. Upon the collapse of wheat values weakness became marked and values suffered. September opened ½@¾c higher at 54¼c at the start and touched 54¾c at its best. The close was weak at the low point for the day, 53¼c. Local receipts were 303 cars, of which 157 cars were of contract grade.

Oats were steady with a good demand from commission houses. Export demand was the sustaining influence. September ranged between 26¼c and 27¼c, closing firm at 28c. Local receipts were 258 cars.

Trade in provisions was of small volume, but prices were sustained by packing house and shipping demand. September pork is up 5c at $14 87½@. Lard closed a shade off at $7 87½. Ribs are higher at $5 00.

Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 30 cars; corn, 277 cars; oats, 355 cars; hogs, 21,000 head.

The leading futures, as reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., Farmers bank building, Pittsburgh, members of the Chicago board of trade, ranged as follows:

In the Oil Fields.

Lower southwest operators had no better success in development work during the past week than has characterized their efforts for a number of months. The number of completions are gradually declining and the average size of the wells is far below that needed to encourage starting new work. The old wells are declining and the production from the new so small that it suppiants only a fractional part of the general decline. Very few of the new wells have an initial production of 50 barrels a day, and it is the exception when ore starts as high as 100 barrels.

The search for new pools in the lower southwest is not so aggressive as formerly, but the hope of finding new producing territory has not been entirely abandoned. In view of the vast amount of experimental work that has been done in the past few years scarcely more than congested pools can be hoped for, there being no room left for fields of any considerable size.

The most that can be expected from the lower southwest territory are extensions to the old fields, in the shape of narrow spurs extending in some direction from the old developments and overlooked in the rush days of operations. During the past week the South Penn Oil Company has probably made a discovery of this kind when it drilled in its test on the J. W. Monroe farm last Thursday, on the west side of the old Wolf Summit field, Harrison county. The oil was developed in the Gordon formation and the well is showing for a 40-barrel producer from the first pay. The old Wolf Summit field was at one time a prolific producer, the wells showed good staying qualities and promised to remain in the producing list for many years. Harrison county has a considerable acreage that has not been fully developed, and under more favorable market conditions will be drilled over more thoroughly. On Big Rock Camp run, Sardis district in the vicinity of the good producer recently completed by Judge Nathan Goff on one of his many farms, there is room for many wells and on the strength of his late completion there is some new work starting. Judge Goff has started to drill at another test in that locality and the South Penn is starting a test on the Edgel farm. This company and Judge Goff hold about all of the territory in that section, and it will be drilled conservatively.

Scarcity of producing territory and a desire for new production has caused operators to be rather careless in the number of wells drilled in territory that was capable of furnishing good producers. During the early part of the year the 30-foot development on Bartholomew run, Mannington district, Marion county, was the best in the size of its wells of any in the lower southwest. Twice as many wells were drilled as need to be to take out the production, and the result is nearly all have declined to very light pumpers and some have been abandoned. Eight months ago the pool had a production of more than 2,000 barrels a day, and has now declined to less than 300 barrels a day.

The Yellow Creek district, Calhoun county, is another that has been over drilled. The old wells have declined and the new do not hold up to what should be their production in Berea grit territory. However, this is still the most active district in the lower southwest. The wells show a better average in production and few dry holes have been encountered. The hope

TOWN IN PART OF TWO STATES

Peculiar Situation Exists at Bristol, Tenn., Through the Quarrel of Surveyors.

TWO MAYORS FOR ONE CITY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BRISTOL, TENN., Aug. 27.—The fact that the revenue officers have recently again become active in the mountains of Eastern Tennessee and along the Virginia border brings to prominence the peculiar position of the town of Bristol, Tenn. Probably no other town in the United States enjoys the distinction of having a common postoffice and yet being situated in two states with two entirely distinctive forms of municipal government.

Many years ago the governors of Virginia and North Carolina each appointed a commission to jointly survey and permanently mark the boundary between the two states, which had never been definitely established and had long been in dispute. Starting at the coast the surveyors of the two states worked westward in unison, until somewhat more than half their task had been completed. Then a disagreement arose.

The North Carolina commissioners claimed that, by reason of the variation of the compass, they had been gradually swerving too far to the southward, and robbing their state of a valuable strip of territory, while the Virginia commissioners firmly maintained the course, as run, was correct. After several days parley they agreed to disagree and the Carolina surveyors packed their transits and levels and moved due north to a point in what they claimed was the correct boundary. No attempt was made to resurvey the line already run, but they worked westward from this point, while Virginia's commission continued westward on the original survey, it being agreed that the question in dispute be left to their respective states for adjustment.

Have Long Controversy.

The territory between the two surveys long remained in controversy, each state claiming and attempting to exercise jurisdiction over it, until a decision of the federal court was rendered in favor of North Carolina. This was but the beginning of a long and interesting legal battle between the two states, which was ended only a few years ago in the United States supreme court of appeals. This court confirmed the decision of the lower courts, and forever settled the dispute in favor of North Carolina, establishing the line as surveyed by the North Carolina commissioners.

By referring to a map of the two states you will at once see the point at which the dispute arose, where the line, after running in a westerly direction from the coast turns due north for a considerable distance, and then continues westward. You will also note that Tennessee is quite as much a gainer by the decision rendered as was North Carolina, for had the survey of the Virginia commission been established as the correct boundary, a large slice of the first-named state would have been given to Virginia, since the western boundary of this state extends considerably beyond that of North Carolina and over the eastern portion of the state of Tennessee. This territory is very rich in timber and minerals, notably iron, though yet in the first stages of development.

Outcome Interests Bristol.

While the legal battle for ownership of the disputed territory was watched with interest by the entire population of the three states, there were none who followed the contest so closely, or to whom the outcome was of such vital interest, as the inhabitants of the little city of Bristol, a town of some 15,000 population, about equally divided by the survey of the North Carolina commission. This line, now permanently fixed as the boundary between Virginia and Tennessee, runs along the center of the principal street and divides this "Twin City" into two municipalities of almost equal proportions and population. This was formerly known as Main street, but a few years ago this name was discarded for one less prosaic and more appropriate, and it is now called State street.

While sharing the same name each city has its own mayor, its own aldermen and its own police force, and between the last named there is much rivalry. The young man who imbibes occasionally and becomes obstreperous on the Virginia side, in danger of having his overflow of spirits checked by an officer, seeks safety in Bristol, Tenn., while "the gentleman who occasionally does not imbibe," and at other times starts a rough house in Tennessee, flies himself to the north side of State street, where he laughs defiance at the sleuths of Tennessee, who are powerless to molest him by reason of that state line—invisible, but impassable as a gulf of fire.

Rivalry Results in Duel.

The rivalry between the two police forces about three years ago had become very bitter, and culminated one night in a duel in State street between Officer Grant Walk of Bristol, Va., and Officer Houston Childress of Bristol, Tenn. Policeman Walk had stepped across the state line and was in Tennessee when the fatal shot was fired, but he immediately disappeared on the Virginia side and for several days all trace of him was lost. The situation then became exceedingly strained between the two forces, the officers of Bristol, Tenn., claiming that Walk was being shielded by the Bristol (Va.) force, while the latter stoutly denied all knowledge of his whereabouts. Many ugly threats were made on both sides, and feeling ran high in the two cities.

After several days a committee from the Bristol (Va.) force invited the mayor and a committee from the Bristol (Tenn.) force to meet them at Bristol (Va.) police headquarters, promising that Walk would be produced and surrendered at this conference, upon assurance of ample protection and a fair trial. The terms were agreed upon and the arrangement carried out, Walk being secretly hurried to the county jail at Blountville, Tenn., the county seat of Sullivan county, in which Bristol (Tenn.) is situated.

Works Clever Ruse.

Some two weeks later, prisoners removed a stone from the wall of the Blountville jail and made their escape. It seemed Walk might easily have escaped with the rest, but he instead gave the alarm, meanwhile holding two of the prisoners who attempted to escape with the others. For this act Walk was put on probation and allowed the liberty of the prison yard, where he formed the habit of walking in the early morning and late evening until just after nightfall. On the day before the one set for his trial he scaled the low wall and quietly stole away. He has never been heard from since. Many think it was he who planned the first escape of the prisoners in order to make his own flight more successful.

On the south side of State street in Bristol, Tenn., near the Union passenger station, which is in Bristol, Va., is situated one of the oldest buildings in the city, known as the "Nickels House." Although located in Tennessee, this ancient hostelry is far better known among Virginians than among citizens of the former state, since for the very reason that it was not in Virginia it has been the foundation for thousands of Virginia's citizenship.

Virginia's Gretna Green.

In Virginia, before a marriage ceremony is performed without parental consent, the contracting parties must both have attained the age of 21, while Tennessee fixes the limit at 12 for females and 18 for males. This is why Parson Burroughs, minister of the gospel and proprietor of the Nickels House, has made it famous by uniting within its walls more than 1,000 couples who have fled to this Gretna Green from every hamlet of Virginia, thus setting at naught parental objections.

Small of stature, slightly stooped, with flowing beard and dark piercing eyes set far back under shaggy brows, always dressed in black, with frock coat and plug hat, "the parson" is a familiar figure at every incoming train. It is said that for 20 years, in every sort of weather, he has never missed a train from Virginia, and that he can invariably pick out the young wooers. Many are the interesting stories he might relate of parental anger which he has helped to mock.

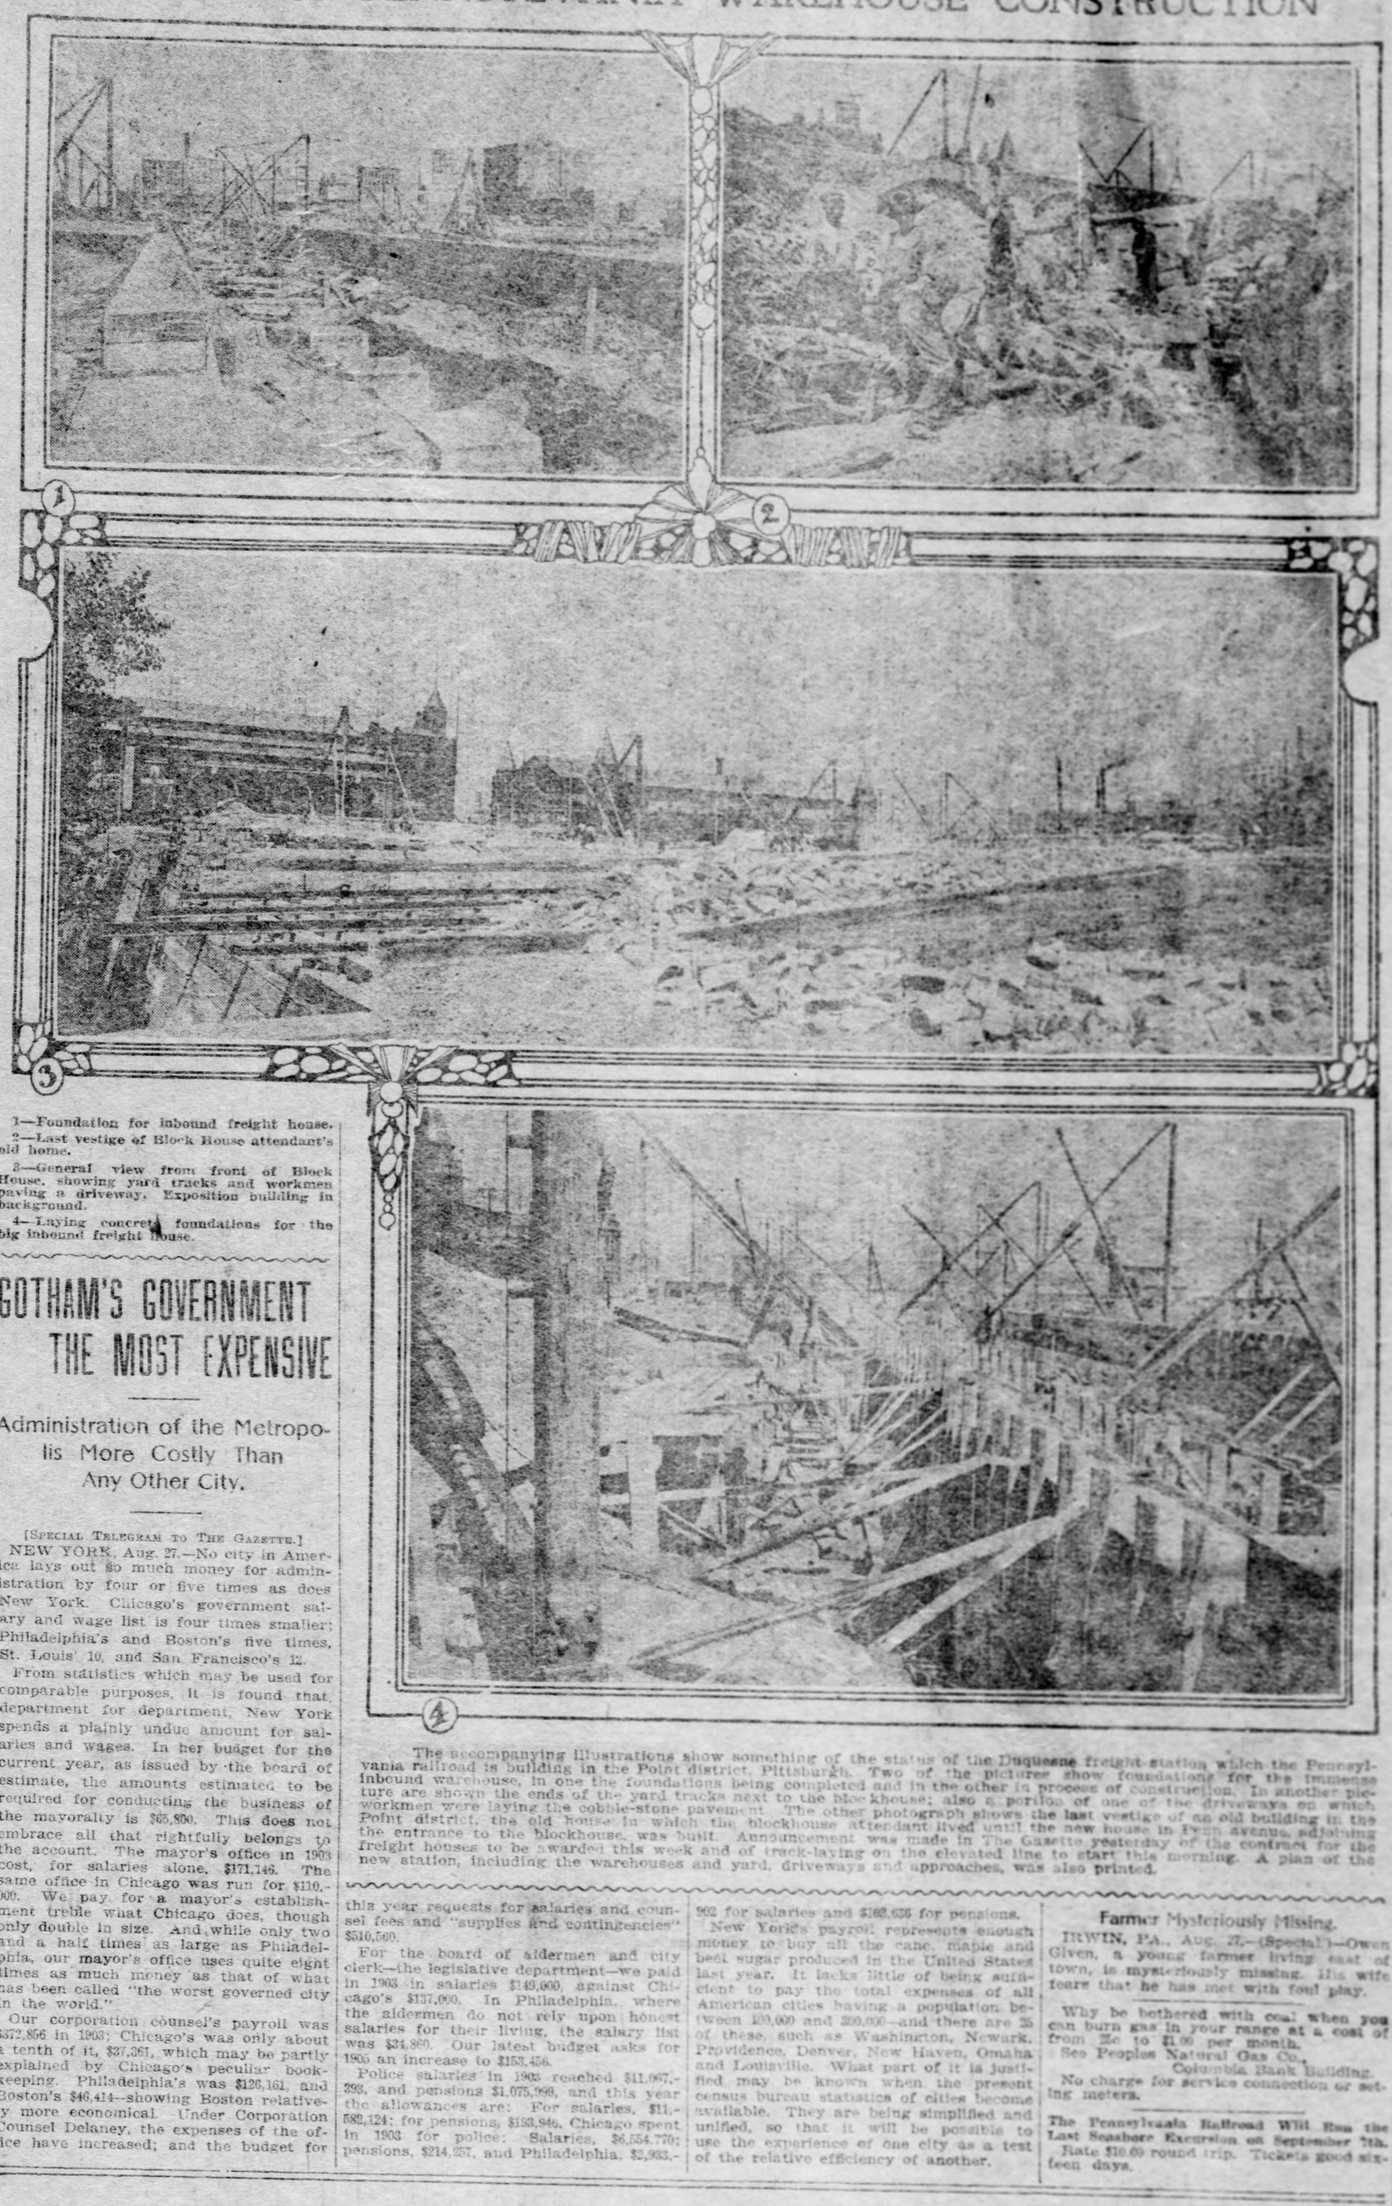
STATUS OF PENNSYLVANIA WAREHOUSE CONSTRUCTION



1—Foundation for inbound freight house.
2—Last vestige of Block House attendant's old home.
3—General view from front of Block House, showing yard tracks and workmen paving a driveway. Exposition building in background.
4—Laying concrete foundations for the big inbound freight house.

The accompanying illustrations show something of the status of the Duquesne freight station which the Pennsylvania railroad is building in the Point district, Pittsburgh. Two of the pictures show foundations for the immense inbound warehouse, in one the foundations being completed and in the other in process of construction. In another picture are shown the ends of the yard tracks next to the blockhouse; also a portion of one of the driveways on which workmen were laying the cobble-stone pavement. The other photograph shows the last vestige of an old building in the Point district, the old house in which the blockhouse attendant lived until the new house in Penn avenue, adjoining the entrance to the blockhouse, was built. Announcement was made in The Gazette yesterday of the contract for the freight houses to be awarded this week and of track-laying on the elevated line to start this morning. A plan of the new station, including the warehouses and yard, driveways and approaches, was also printed.

GOTHAM'S GOVERNMENT THE MOST EXPENSIVE

Administration of the Metropolis More Costly Than Any Other City.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—No city in America lays out so much money for administration by four or five times as does New York. Chicago's government salary and wage list is four times smaller; Philadelphia's and Boston's five times, St. Louis' 10, and San Francisco's 12.

From statistics which may be used for comparable purposes, it is found that department for department, New York spends a plainly undue amount for salaries and wages. In her budget for the current year, as issued by the board of estimate, the amounts estimated to be required for conducting the business of the mayoralty is $65,800. This does not embrace all that rightfully belongs to the account. The mayor's office in 1903 cost, for salaries alone, $171,146. The same office in Chicago was run for $110,000. We pay for a mayor's establishment treble what Chicago does, though only double in size. And while only two and a half times as large as Philadelphia, our mayor's office uses quite eight times as much money as that of what has been called "the worst governed city in the world."

Our corporation counsel's payroll was $372,856 in 1903; Chicago's was only about a tenth of it, $37,361, which may be partly explained by Chicago's peculiar bookkeeping. Philadelphia's was $126,161, and Boston's $46,414—showing Boston relatively more economical. Under Corporation Counsel Delaney, the expenses of the office have increased; and the budget for this year requests for salaries and counsel fees and "supplies and contingencies" $510,560.

For the board of aldermen and city clerk—the legislative department—we paid in 1903 in salaries $149,600, against Chicago's $137,000. In Philadelphia, where the aldermen do not rely upon honest salaries for their living, the salary list was $24,860. Our latest budget asks for 1905 an increase to $153,456.

Police salaries in 1903 reached $11,067,293, and pensions $1,075,999, and this year the allowances are: For salaries, $11,582,124; for pensions, $153,946. Chicago spent in 1903 for police: Salaries, $6,554,770; pensions, $214,257, and Philadelphia, $2,963,902 for salaries and $162,635 for pensions.

New York's payroll represents enough money to buy all the cane, maple and beet sugar produced in the United States last year. It lacks little of being sufficient to pay the total expenses of all American cities having a population between 100,000 and 200,000—and there are 25 of these, such as Washington, Newark, Providence, Denver, New Haven, Omaha and Louisville. What part of it is justified may be known when the present census bureau statistics of cities become available. They are being simplified and unified, so that it will be possible to use the experience of one city as a test of the relative efficiency of another.
